Mr. Outten,

Thanx for making government funnier than I thought it would be. I had fun in your class. Enjoy retirement and spend sometime w/ the grandkids, don't let the wife drive you crazy. You were a good government teacher. Enjoy Life.

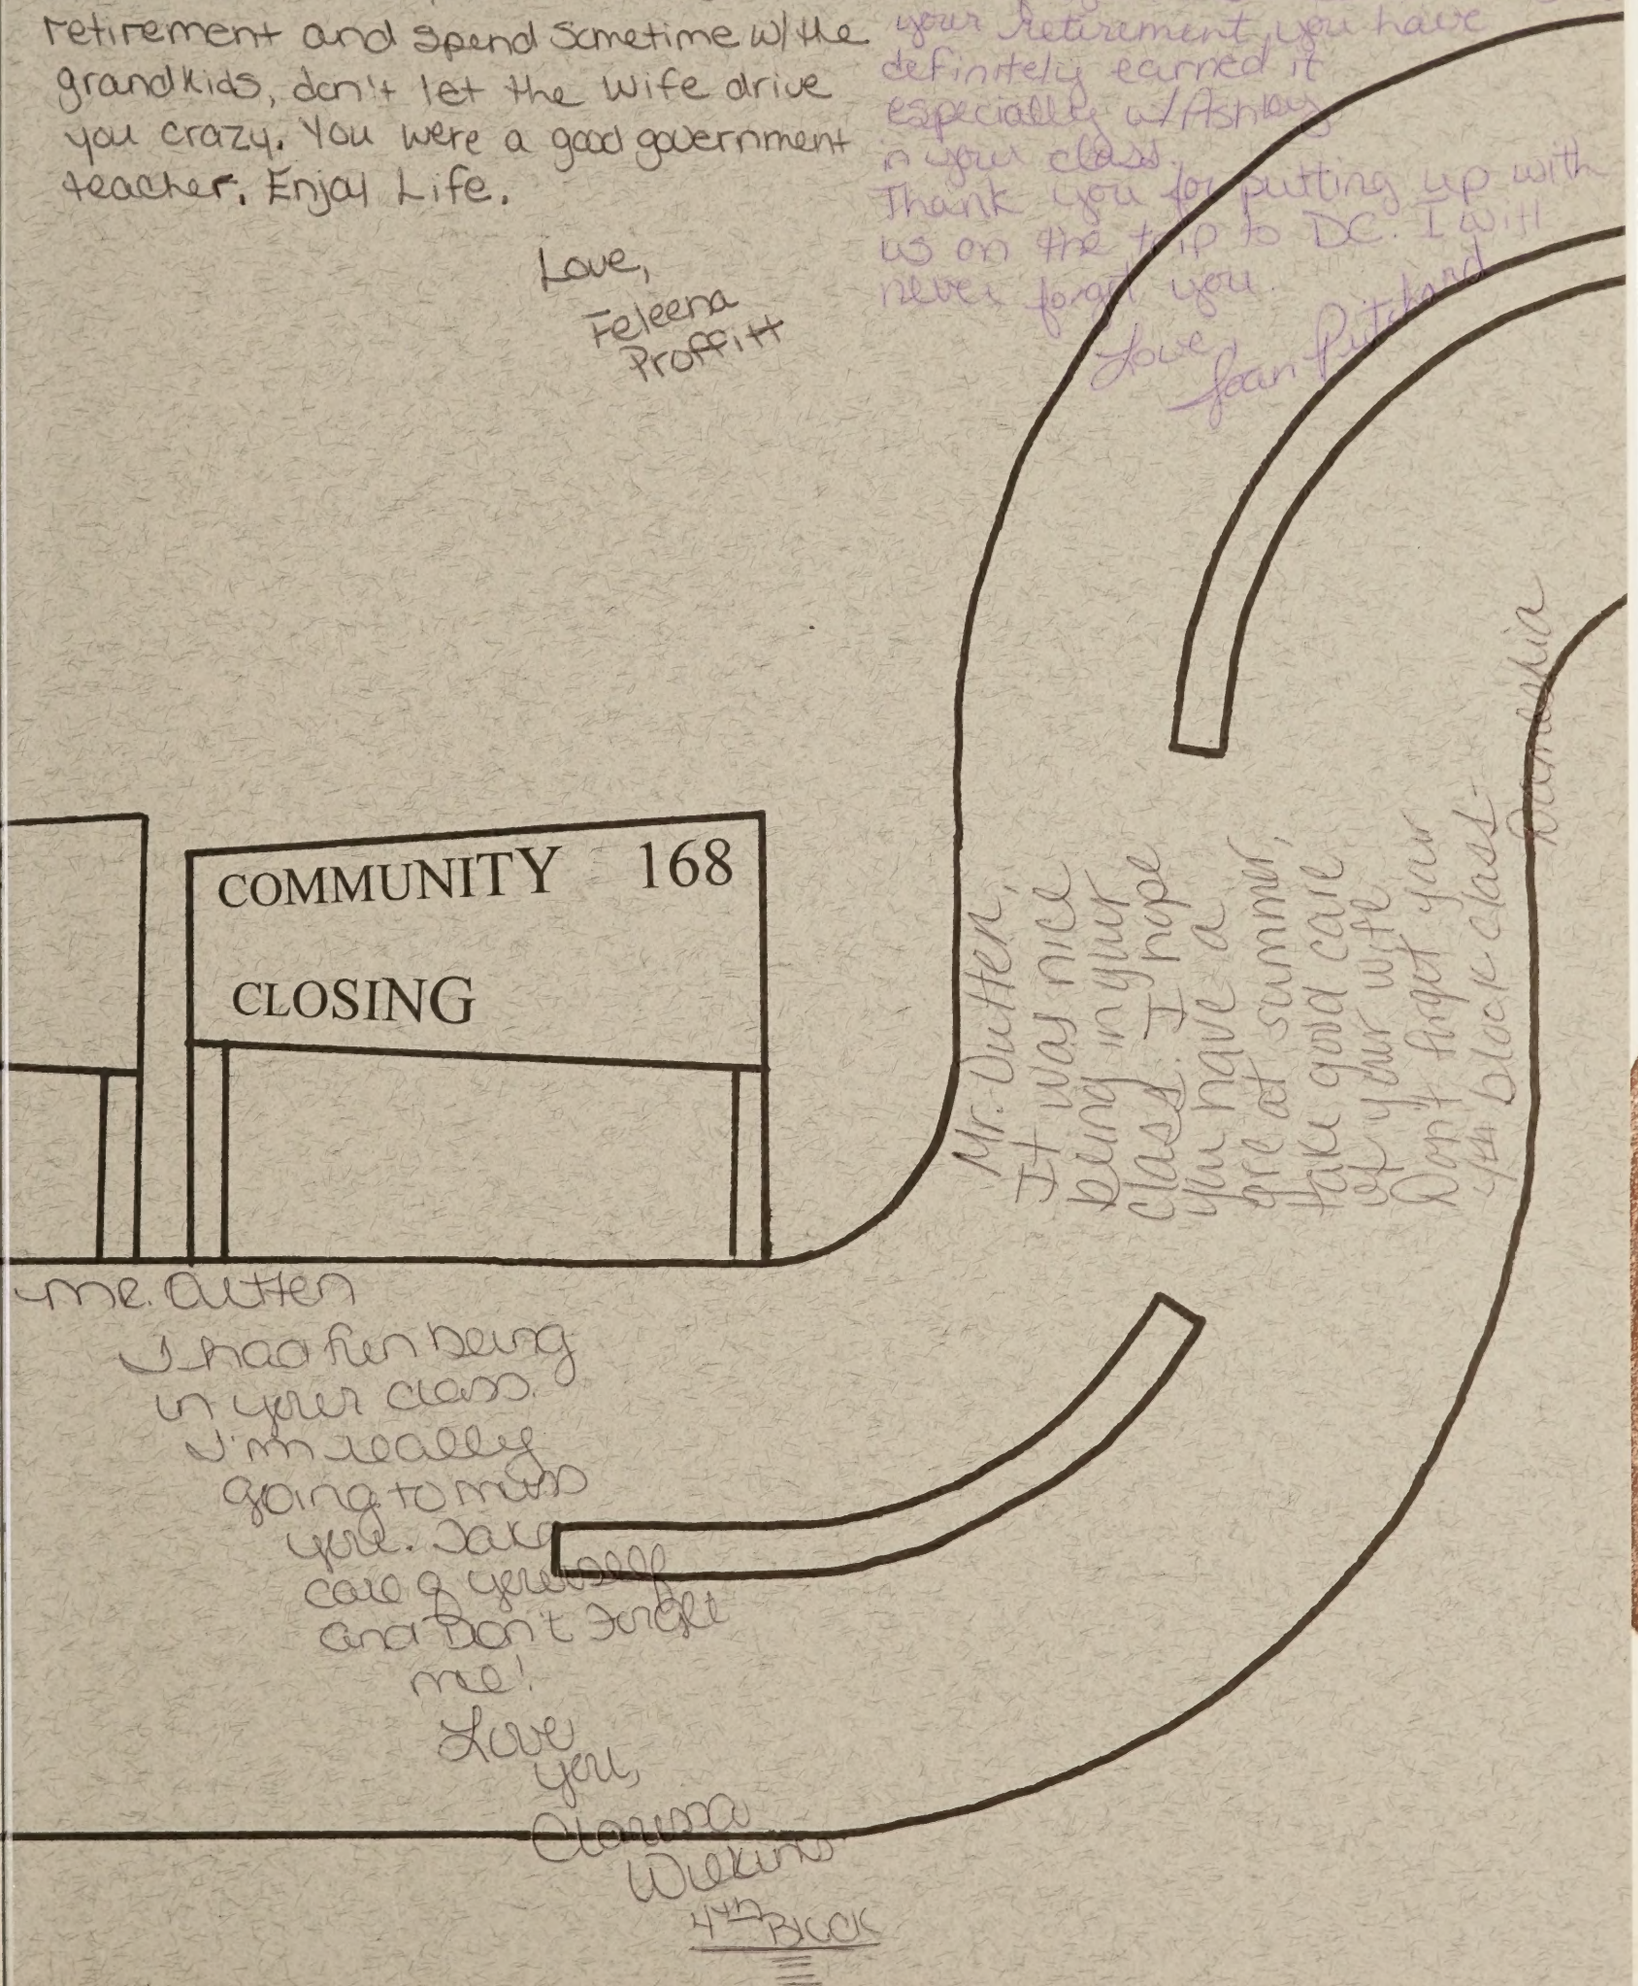
Love,
Feleena Proffitt

Mr. Outten,

I didn't think that I could have fun in govt but you made it fun. It is an honor to be one of your last classes. Enjoy your retirement, you have definitely earned it especially w/ Ashley in your class.

Thank you for putting up with us on the trip to DC. I will never forget you.

Love
Jean Pritchard



Mr. Outten,
It was nice being in your class. I hope you have a great summer, take good care of your wife. Don't forget your pitchfork.

Mr. Outten
I had fun being in your class. I'm really going to miss you. Take care of yourself and don't forget me!

Starting Line

Setting Pace For A New Year

What is always the same yet always different? Give up... the first day of school. The clock always beeps hours before a student is ready to get out of bed. Talking about new clothes and old friends have kept many students on the phone for hours. A new year of school not only brought new faces, but new drivers as well. The dream of driving came true for many students. The once empty parking lot was now filled.

Walking up to the school the scene in the front foyer never changes. People were everywhere, bumping into one another, frantically trying to get to class. The new batch of 454 freshmen could look forward to a chaotic day. A schedule held tightly in their hands was a definite sign of a newcomer.

The return to school also meant getting used to the 90–minute periods again. The four–year old 4 x 4 block scheduling was once again in effect. Well known electives such as Communications Systems, Keyboarding, and foreign languages helped students to prepare for their futures. Whether it was staying after for a sport or for a club meeting, students kept busy in the afternoon.

Mr. Bradford Andrew's class won the United Way competition this year. The class collected $308 and enjoyed a breakfast in the cafeteria.

Many students go to high school to find a direction in their lives. They learn to make choices about which classes to take, what activities to participate in and how to choose friends. These decisions affect the present as well as the future.

Each generation shares traditions and seeks to create their mark. Choices faced ranged from deciding which classes to take, to deciding whether to color one's hair green or blue. The high school diploma is ever the goal. Students reach their goal by different means, but it still remains the heart of student life.

Watching the game, the members of the Homecoming Court await the announcement of the Queen and Maid of Honor. Homecoming was on October 30, 1998.

As part of his class objective, Mr. Burnham assists students in planting flowers in the school courtyard. This was done during all seasons.

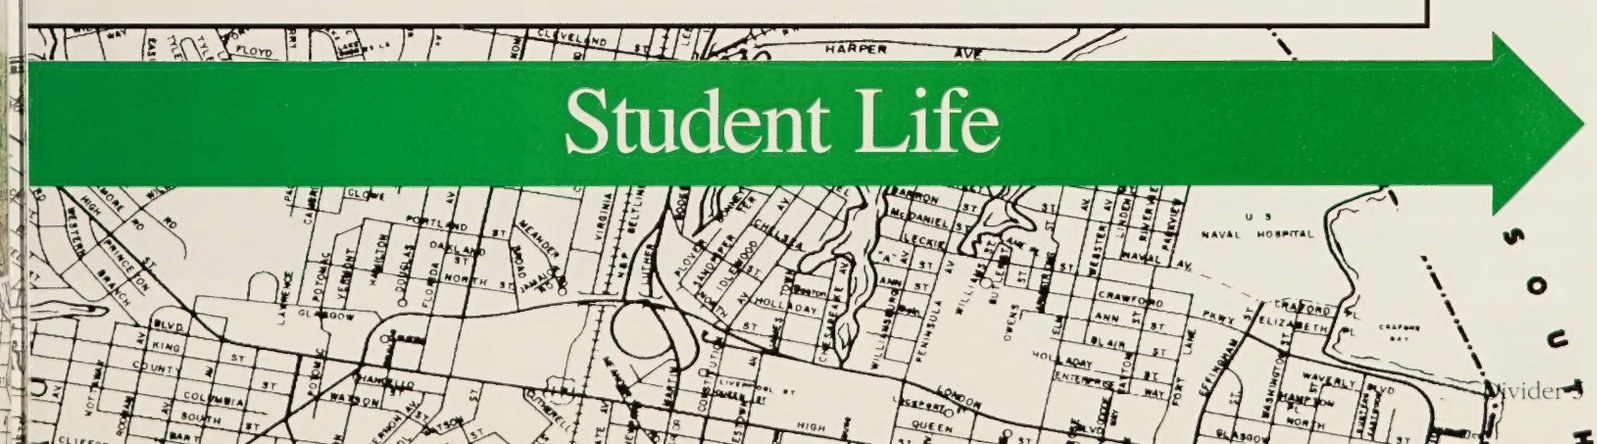
Finding A New Route

Student Life



Members of the SCA assemble and sort balloons for the upcoming sale. The balloons were sold during lunches the day of the homecoming pep rally. Aside from ballons the SCA also sold megaphones and candy.

Freshmen Michael Ackiss and Monica Scales paint their class float. Float building was done after school the week of homecoming.

Posing for a group shot, participants in Switch Day show their school spirit. Switch day had some of it's highest participation ever this year.

Seniors Jeff Bingham, Chris Dellinger, Trey Hudson, and Brandon Breland pause on the way into school to show some leg.

Dressed as their favorite superhero or cartoon character are Seniors Ben Booth as Paper Boy and Kelly Fleming as Dorothy from the Wizard of Oz.

Got The Spirit

Student Involvement Best Ever

With many different ways in which to show spirit, students became totally involved in dressing up, buying spirit links, and preparing floats and signs for Homecoming Day. The SCA sponsored Bama Day, Switch Day, Cartoon Character Day as well as the more traditional Spirit Day. The number of students who "got the spirit" seemed greatly increased from the past.

Switch Day provided the biggest laughs and the most fun for many students as guys let people know how they thought girls "really" looked! Girls were a little more subtle and a lot less outrageous in their portrayal of guys. Creativity ran wild as students outdid themselves with outrageous dress and mannerisms to match!

The annual spirit link competition had students spying on various classes, viewed to be the front runners in this fundraising event. Boys basketball Coach Mac Carroll has been promoting the links for a number of years and the event has remained highly competitive among first block classes. Extra links had to be cut on Homecoming Day itself as the demand went far beyond the supply.

The fun and good spirit provided by Spirit Week were a change from the ordinary in the school environment and students had a good time as they attempted to prove that their class was indeed the most spirited.

Its a flash back to the 70's as this group poses for a picture on Retro Day. Students dressed up in varying styles from both 50's, 60's, as well.

Students crowd Coach Carroll to buy spirit links for their homerooms. Competion between classes has become a major part of the Homecoming tradition.

Pump It Up!

Spirit Reaches All Time High

Members of the four classes outdid themselves in decorating their assigned sections of the gym with school colors. The competition to see who had the most spirited class was fierce and the yelling was intense. When asked about the pep rally, newcomer, junior Jennifer Hebert commented, "It was exciting! There was so much enthusiasm."

Seniors, once again, wore the traditional Burger King crowns as they proclaimed themselves the "rulers" of the school. Their signs read "Bow to Royalty" as well as "Class of '99."

Pompoms, face paint, hair colors and clothing all advertised the orange and black. Balloons filled the air and a massive pile of spirit links covered the gym floor with a giant "T". The spirit links were a very successful fund raiser for the boys basketball team. Miss Patricia Lyon's first block class won the contest with 3,227 links. Mrs. Anna Cross's class came in a close second with 3,193 links.

The fall sports teams were introduced and District First Place trophies were presented to the Golf team, the Girls Volleyball team and the Boys Volleyball team. The crowd went wild when the football team was finally introduced by head Coach Ken Taylor.

The rally ended at 2:05 PM as psyched students ran for their buses and cars to head home and to get ready for the big game.

Showing their spirit with pom poms, megaphones, and balloons seniors wear the traditional Burger King crowns. Many seniors, like Stephanie Bristow, decorated their crowns with glitter and paint.

Entering to the roar of the crowd Senior Stephen Bernick is announced by Coach Taylor. Bernick has been on the Varsity team for three years.

Students prepare signs and banners for the pep rally, like this one by Kristen Marland. Each grade level spent both time and energy to earn the title of most spirited class.

A massive "T" of spirit links covers the gym floor during the pep rally. Homerooms were still buying the links right up to the start of the pep rally.

Junior Brandon Thornell focuses on the drum major's directions as he plays his snare. The band was a central part of the entertainment at the pep rally.

Varsity Cheerleaders Kelly Fleming and Shelley Martin prepare to pump up the crowd. Both Fleming and Martin have been on the squad for two years.

Swimming in spirit links memebers of Ms. Yearby's class carry the long chain of spirit links. Ms. Yearby's homeroom came in third place at the competition.with 2,642.

The Big Night

A Fairy Tale Evening...

Homecoming '98 arrived on a crisp fall evening. The members of the Homecoming Court, dressed in professional attire, took the field at half-time for the crowning ceremony. Escorted by the band, class floats, and the MCJROTC, the couples anxiously awaited the announcement by Master of Ceremonies Erik Davis. Rachel Paige was selected to be Maid of Honor, and Valentina Wray won the title of Homecoming Queen.

The 28-14 victory over Norview by the mighty Trucker football team ended a perfect evening. The solid win indicated that the team had remained "pumped up" from the afternoon's pep rally.

The four classes participated in a float building competition and parade around the track. The Senior class took top honors with "Alice in Wonderland," their entry using the classic fairy tale and storybook theme. Second Place honors went to the Sophomore class float with the theme of "The Wizard of Oz." Float production was a major fall activity which required a great deal of time and hard work. This activity helped unify each grade level.

As the events came to a close and people left the game, they knew for certain the Trucker pride and spirit were alive and well.

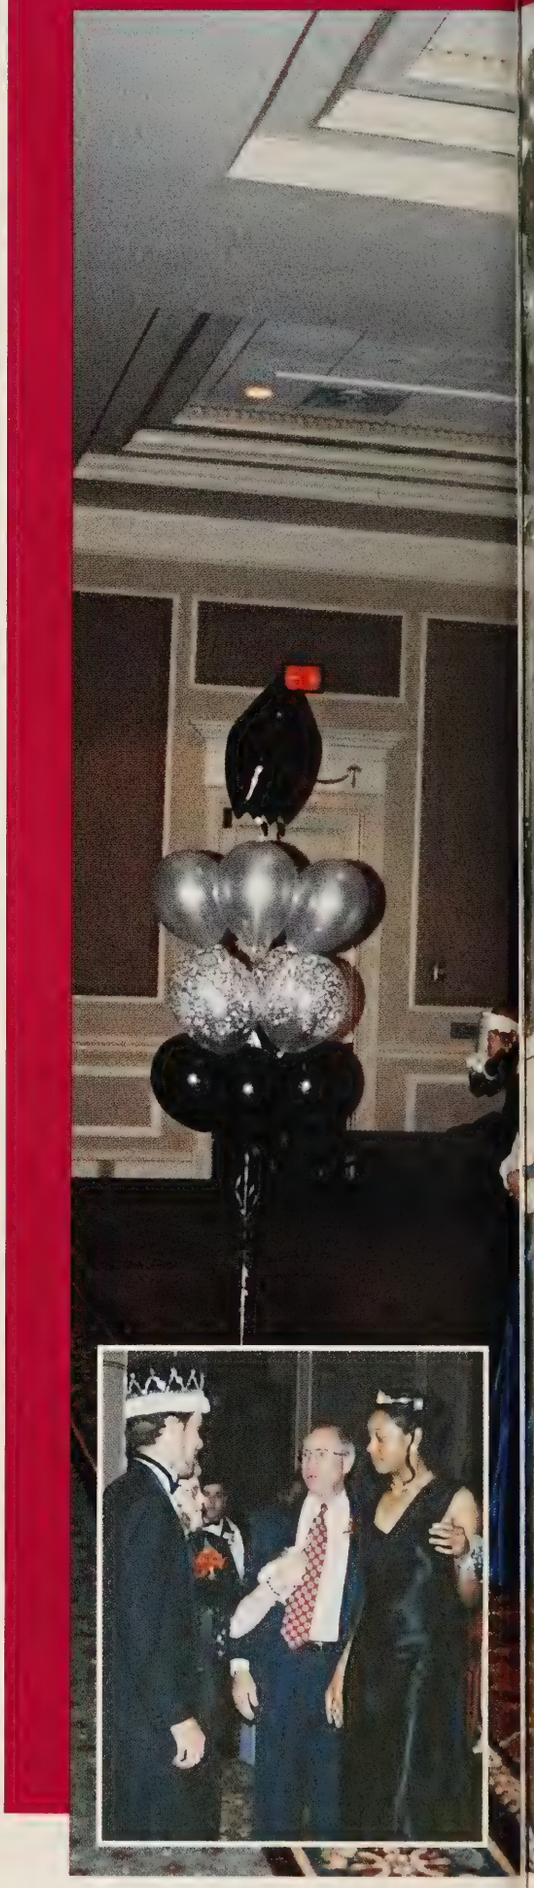
After being announced finalist of the Mr. & Miss CHS pageant, the contestants await their question. Out of twenty-three participants only eight were chosen as finalists.

The Marriott ballroom provided elegance for Prom 1998. The decorations carried out the theme "In the Still of the Night" with black and silver balloons and stars. Judsina Gorham and John Powers were crowned Prom King and Queen.

"Showing thier stuff" on the dancefloor at Prom, Earl Thomas and Latonya Jenkins, enjoy the evening. Like many other couples, they had matching attire.

Curling her hair before the evening gown competition, Stefanie Jones, creates the perfect image. Jones was one of the seven junior participants.

Preparing to play a popular tune, the members of a local band, The Top Hats, study their music. The band has played at the pageant for the past four years.



A Formal Affair

Prom and Pageant a Success

What color looks best on me? Are you renting a limo? Where are you eating dinner? These were some of the most frequently asked questions as juniors began to make plans for the night to remember.

Fundraising began during the freshman year, as the class of '99 prepared to raise money for prom.

Dresses, nails, tanning, and hair-do's were a constant drain on the female's pocketbook. The guys were responsible for the transportation, renting a tuxedo, and dinner, and found the financial burdens heavy.

Elegance continued at the 1998 Mr. and Mrs. Churchland Pageant, sponsored by Mrs. Debbie Myers and Mrs. Diane Snellinger. The theme, "Just Cruisin", was carried out by decorating the stage with a cut out of a Cadillac.

The judging began the morning of the pageant when the contestants had a one-on-one interview with the judges. The pageant included a casual section in which the contestants introduced themselves and danced to "All I Wanna Do is Have Some Fun." It also included a more formal segment in which the contestants wore evening gowns and tuxedoes. Later in the night, finalists were chosen and asked questions dealing with real life situations.

When the scores were totaled, seniors Sherrie DeLoatch and Corey Thomas were crowned Mr. and Mrs. Churchland 1998.

Stopping to pose for the camera after the casual segment, contestants of the Mr. & Miss CHS Pageant prepare for the formal portion of the competition.

Setting up for a pass, Carrie Robbins looks downfield to Rachel Paige. Robbins was an All-District forward and played offense for four years.

Adam Bright cranks the half nelson forcing his opponent on his back. The team hoped to repeat the success of their 1998 season.

Batter up! Waiting for the pitch, Junior Phillip Smith readies his swing. The Truckers were the returning District champs and determined to defend their district title.

Ben Booth sets the pace as he breaks away from the pack. Booth took first place in the 5000 meter run at the District Meet with a time of sixteen minutes.

Recognition

A Sport for all Seasons

Everybody wanted his or her fifteen minutes of fame. The mainstream athletes got plenty of recognition but athletes of other sports longed for recognition too. When asked his opinion on baseball coverage, Senior Trey Hudson responded, "I wish baseball was covered as much as basketball, especially since we won districts last year." Some of the sports that weren't given their time in the spotlight included softball, soccer, cross-country, and wrestling. These sports have finally received their due recognition.

Varsity Baseball came into the season as District champs with a 14-4 record. Girls Varsity Softball returned from a rebuilding season with more experience.

Cross Country looked forward to October's cooler temperatures after an unusually hot September took its toll. The team ranked second place after the District Meet.

Both the Boys and Girls Varsity Soccer teams kept key starters and entered the season with confidence and experience.

After a year of several District title winners, the wrestling team started afresh this year with many new wrestlers.

Coverage of spring sports is a difficult task. The players deserve their fifteen minutes and The Trucker has attempted to give them their due recogniton.

Long reach is an important skill for a first basemen. Mandy Snyder demonstrated this as she stretched for the catch. Defense was a critical part in the game of softball.

Sophomore Sean Collins gained control of the ball as he raced down the field. Soccer drills emphasized dribbling as well as shooting skills.

Moving carefully, Jennifer Kilcollins, walks down the steps for her formal presentation, at the 1998 Mr. & Miss CHS Pageant. "I was nervous and excited," said Kilcollins.

Now and Then

Are the Times That Different?

Have things really changed? A trip through some old yearbooks indicated that "modern" times are not original. Students, through the generations have shared many common interests: cars, pageants, sports, and fashions. These are also a sign of the times.

Automobiles have always played a major role in the lives of high school students. Today, most students are dependant on cars as transportation not only to school, but also to work. It was once considered a great privilege to be able to drive to school. This is obvious because the number of parking spaces has increased from fifty to five hundred and twenty-five.

The Homecoming Court and the Mr. and Miss Churchland Pageant are ongoing traditions. Students have always enjoyed dressing up in formal wear or dress outfits. Preparing for these events was great fun as students made a video for Homecoming and a special dance routine for the pageant.

The rules of the game have not changed, but the uniforms and school attire are obvious indicators of the decade. From the pageboy to the cornrows, and mini-skirts to baggy pants, both hairstyles and clothing styles have changed constantly. However, interests have stayed the same both "Now and Then."

Costs

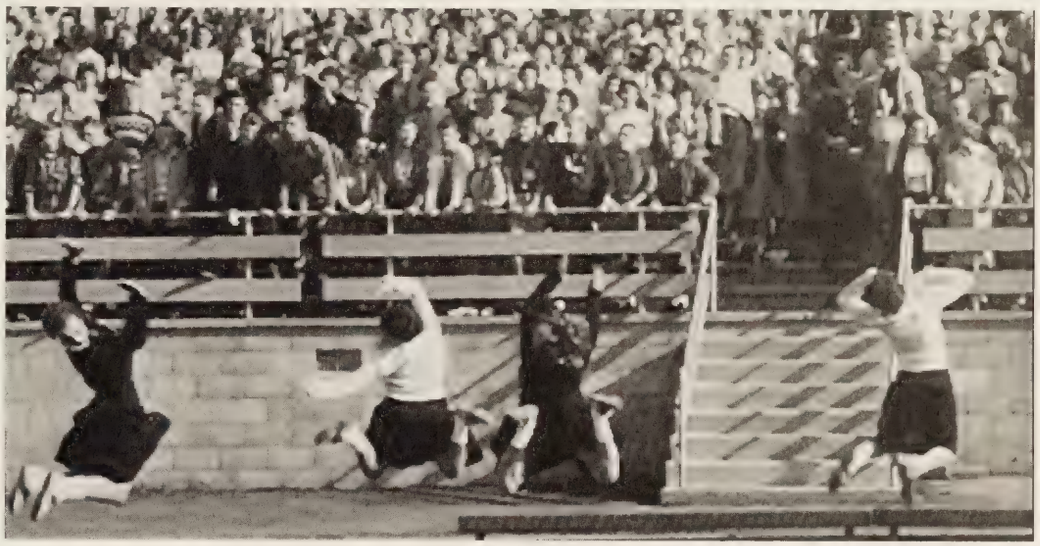
Now		Then
$0.97	Gas	$0.27
$55.00	Class Dues	$3.00
$35.00	Yearbook	$4.50
$25.00	Prom Ticket	$0
$15.99	Records/CD's	$3.99
$6.00	Movie Ticket	$0.50
$4.00	McDonald's	$1.00

Hanging on to the runner, the Trucker defense goes in for the tackle. The Bruins took another win in the 29th annual Friendship Bowl and took the cup back to Western Branch High School.

Over the years, the way that students look has definitetly changed. However, students of every generation are able to express their individuality... (1977*Trucker*).

The Mr & Miss CHS Pageant has been a tradition for over thirty years. Although the hair and gown styles have changed, much has remained the same... (1963*Trucker*).

Although the number of fall pep rallies has decreased, the spirit of the students has not. Cheerleaders have always been able to "pump up" the crowd... (1962*Trucker*).



car has always been important to students. Lisa Stuhr was the lucky driver of his '96 Mitsubishi Eclipse. In the 60's students were lucky to use the family car.

The line up of buses behind the old CHS indicated that it was 3:10 pm. Students now crowd the buses and student parking lot at 2:00 pm... (1960*Trucker*).

Sports have always been a very important part of high school life. The uniforms may have changed, but the students' reactions to sports has not... (1960*Trucker*).

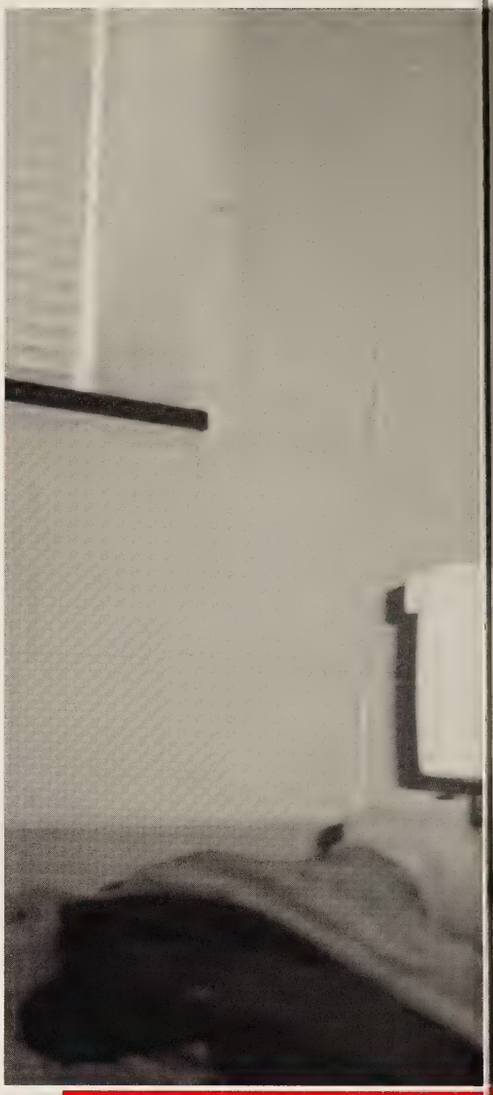
Spelling It Out

Getting Personal with Style

Purple fingernails, orange hair and it's not even Halloween! Walking through the halls, just about any combination of color, type of hairstyle, or mode of dress was evident. Students literally "did their own thing" daily. Being different has always appealed to students and the current generation is no exception, although friends often duplicate each other's attire.

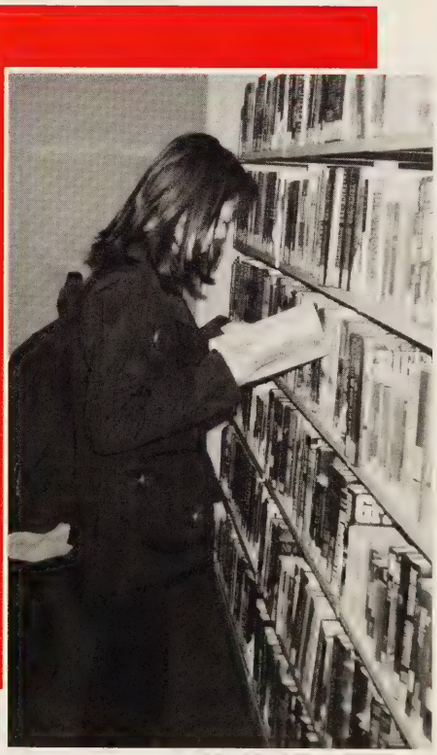
Some of the popular brand names included Ralph Lauren, Mecca, Adidas, and Tommy Hilfiger. These labels were seen frequently and displayed in many different ways. "Nautica has many varieties of clothing to choose from, that's why I buy so much of it", said junior Justin Ennis. American Eagle and Dillard's appeared to be the places to shop locally, although many students traveled farther for their fashions. The average amount of money that students spend annually on clothing is about $800-$1200.

Another way that students showed their style was through their personalized license plates. The plates displayed offered a unique way to advertise personalities, they also revealed activities students were interested in, and even different ways of spelling their names. Personalized plates were the "in" thing, especially for students getting their first automobiles.

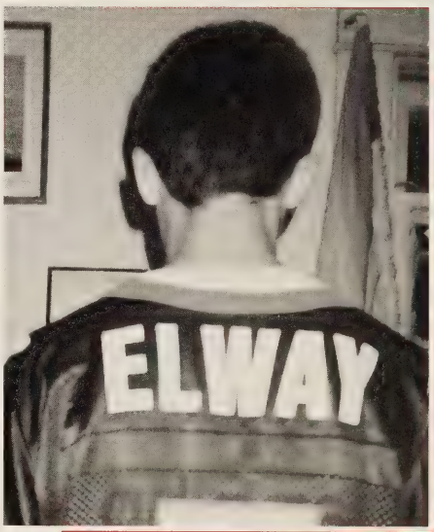


Bought clothes usually indicated conformity. Sophomore Aaron Zielezinski chose a different approach as he not only designed but actually made his wardrobe. Several students also wore his designs.

Different strokes for different folks. Many styles were seen all throughout the school. Students displayed their personal style while posing for a picture in the courtyard.



Students are seldom seen without their backpacks. Junior Raquel McKeveny wears hers as she researches for her AP History project.



Favorite athletes or teams were regularly ad vertised on sports wear. Luke Pruitt turne his back, so his favorite quarterback's nam was displayed.

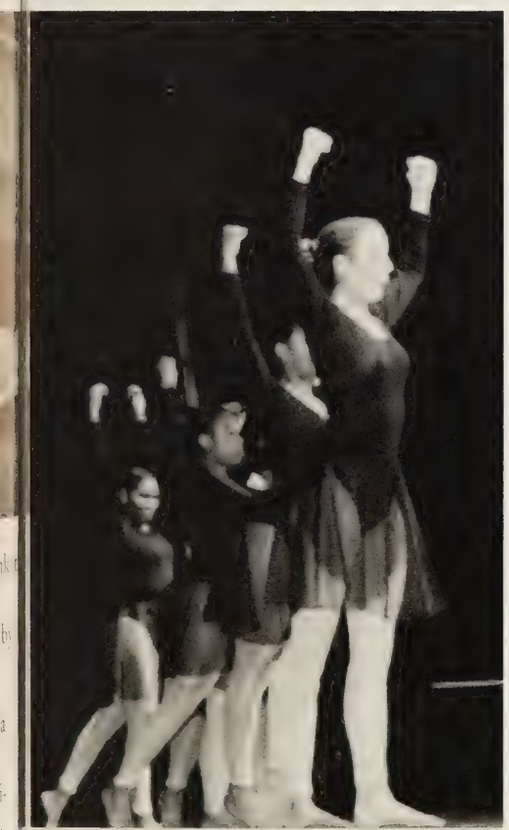
'Tis The Season

Students Bring Holiday Cheer

School's out! No, it wasn't summer, but the anxiety of the student body for Winter Break surely resembled their anticipation of summer. Traditionally, the holiday season is celebrated with carolers in the halls and the annual winter concert. With Santa hats and shirts decorated with holiday symbols such as bells, Christmas trees, holly wreaths, snowmen, and reindeer, students and teachers definitely had the spirit. Some classes even decorated their doors with lights and wrapping paper.

The Winter Concert brought a surprise this year as the Magnet Modern Dance class took the stage for the first time. One of the dance troupe's more experienced members, senior Kristen Harts, commented, "We practiced since September to prepare for the concert. I felt that it was a really good performance even though we were a little nervous about performing in front of the student body." In addition to the dance program, there were also performances by the orchestra, band, and chorus.

This year the vacation was only for ten days, which flew by very quickly. The first days of the break were used by most to do last minute shopping. Some students used the holiday to visit their friends or family or go on vacation.



Raven Kidd takes the lead in the Magnet Modern Dance class's Winter assembly dance routine. Many of the dancers had prior performance experience.

Flutists Jennifer Kilcollins, Stella Knight, Kristin Marland, and Heather Ivey bring holiday cheer to classrooms.

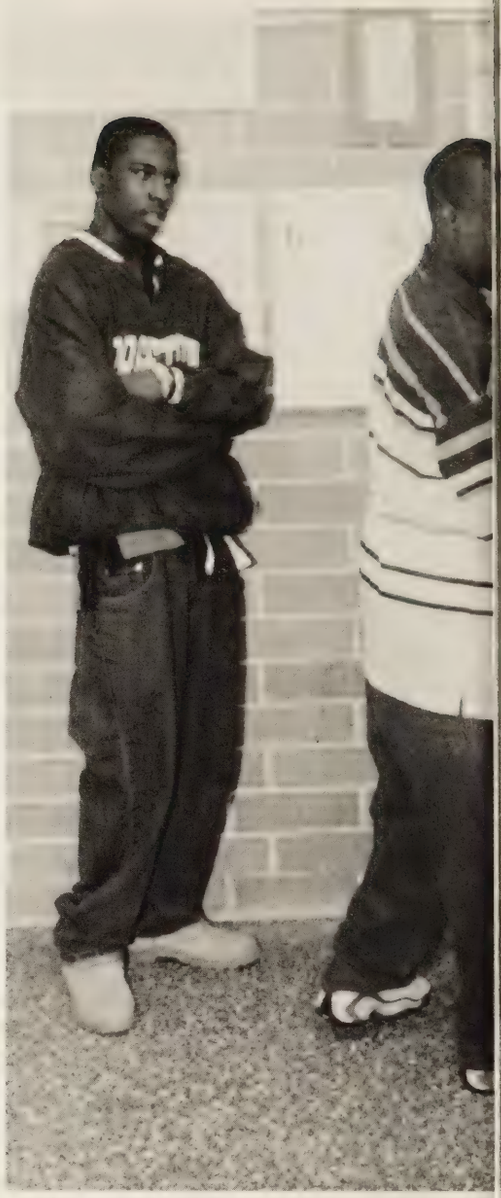
"Chilling" in the hallway, the Fisher brothers, Darnell, Byron, Lewis, and Marcus, four of a kind, hang out near the band room. "Hooking it up", Dena Giacometti handed her brother Anthony lunch money.



A Common Path

Sibling Rivalry in High School

"Will you take me to the mall?" "Can I borrow…?" "Can you help me with my homework?" These are questions heard when family is around.

Siblings share a common bond of kinship and a closeness that transcends into almost every aspect of life. Twins can even "think" like and be each other. They provide a willing ear, are friends through good and bad times, and they also provide transportation for those who are younger.

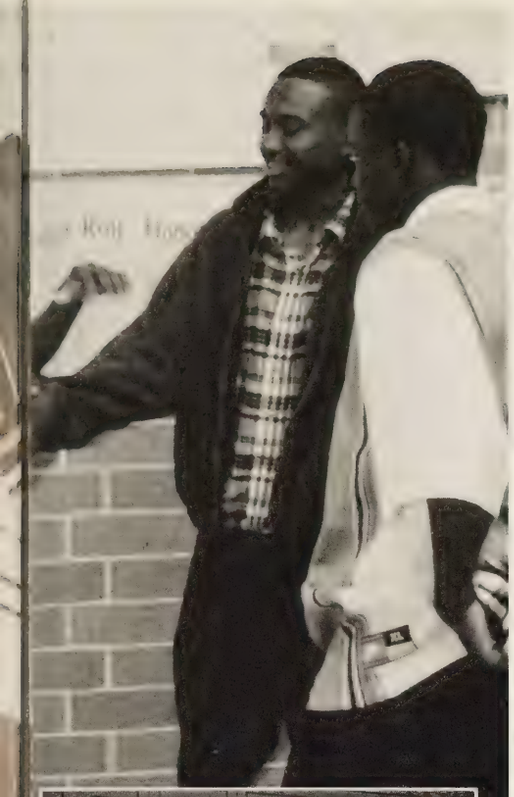
"No, I'm not going to the mall now." "No, you can't borrow……." "I'll help you later. I'm busy right now." Sometimes siblings were not as helpful as you wanted them to be. Whether it was borrowing clothes and not returning them, arguing over telephone rights, or competing for attention, it seemed that siblings argued and fought over just about everything.

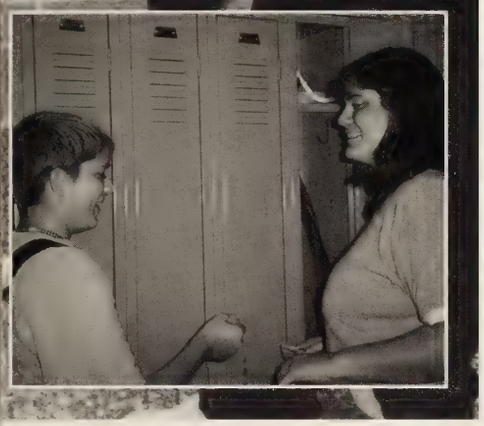
Having family around had both advantages and disadvantages. The oldest had the privilege of breaking in the parents and teachers, as they also "paved the way" for the others. The teachers always know who the youngest in the family was, and usually told the student, "Oh, I remember so and so. Are you related to him/her?"

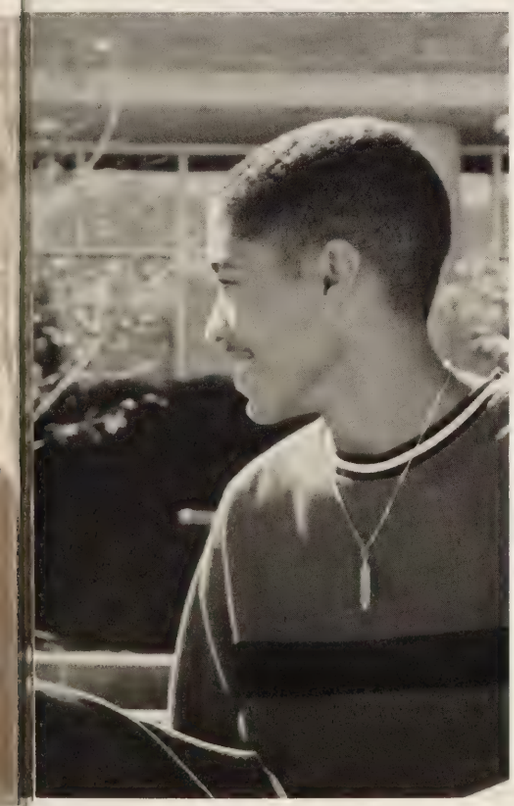
Blood is thicker than water, and most brothers and sisters shared a very close bond beneath all the arguing.

Reviewing a history assignment, Jason Hammond points out an important topic to his brother, Robert. Jason had much to teach his brother about high school.

Taking a break, twins Fernando and Armando Joa have a conversation in the courtyard. Many seniors took advantage of their privilege to eat outside during lunch.

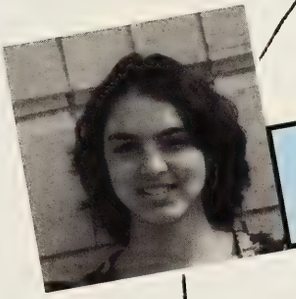






What was the best thing about having a sibling in school?

"Ashley introduced me to her friends and made me feel welcome."
Allison Trombitas



"Being in school with Blair allowed me to keep an eye on my brother."
Amber Cook

"My brother Ben encouraged me to study harder for my weaker subjects."
Katherine Booth

As part of French class, sophomore Erin Kongslien stays after school to make up a dialogue. Kongslien was a third year French student.

Relaxing at home, Peter Foytik perfects his style. Foytik, a second year member of the Marching Truckers, replied, "I choose to play saxophone because it's a way to express creative feelings through music."

2 PM at Last

Doing Our Own Thing

The two o'clock bell ending school signaled the beginning of "a life" for many students. Students spent after school hours "doing their own thing." After a hectic day of classes, teachers, and work, students enjoyed some rest and relaxation by watching TV, talking on the phone, or sleeping; and others reported to jobs and various other activities.

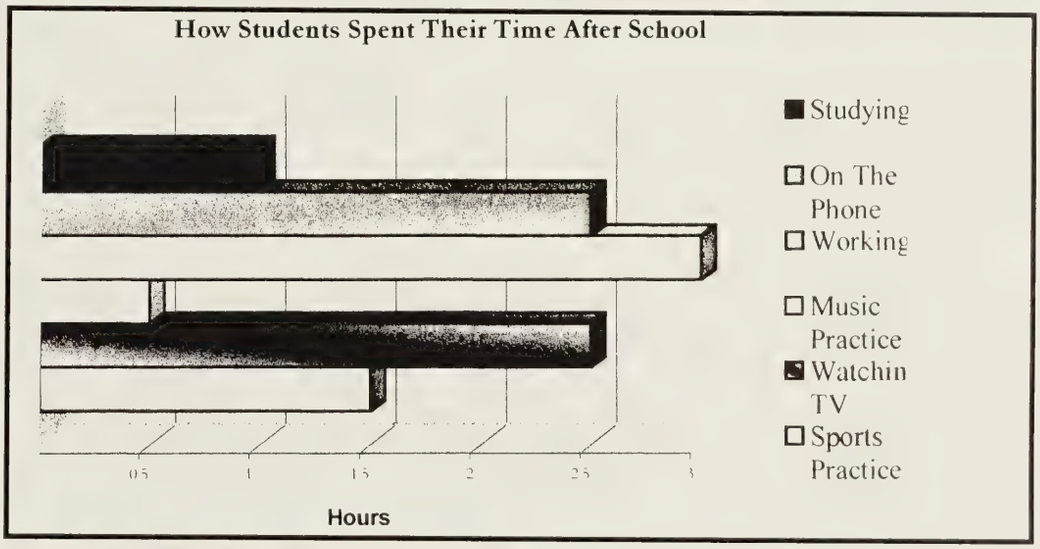
Many students had busy schedules, which included after school jobs, practices, and club meetings. Most students were involved in one or more clubs this year. "I feel good about giving up my time to support the school because I want people to be proud of the school," remarked sophomore, Jamie Hill.

One of the main priorities of a high school student were jobs. Upperclassmen worked to pay off cars, gas, insurance, and to save up for college. Some students worked as many as thirty hours a week. Kelli Sprinkle, a senior, commented "It's hard maintaining a job and keeping up my grades because I have to learn to balance my job schedule and school work, and how to manage my time efficiently." Although students had busy schedules after school, they still found time to study, do homework, and hang out with friends and family.

Immediately after school, seniors Jennifer Bright and Tawanda Brown practice for Varsity basketball. The gym was used everyday from 4:30-6:30 for practice.

Moving into formation, the band participates in the Trucker Classic. The band practiced twice a week from 4:15-6:30 and participated in eight competitions.

Winding down after school, Erica Pankratz talks to a classmate. Most students enjoyed talking on the phone or watching TV after school.



Extra Credit

Courses Provide Job Skills

This school had a reputation for helping students prepare for life in the real world. Twenty-two students participated in off campus classes, which emphasized specific job skills that they could use in their chosen career path. The courses offered this year included Horticulture, Nursing, and DE Automotive Tech.

Horticulture was a two period, one semester class that exposed students to basic botany. Upon completion of the course, students earned TCC college credit and became eligible to be a certified greenhouse operator and pesticide applicator.

The nursing program consisted of two separate courses. Licensed Practical Nursing was open to only seniors and met at Hunt Mapp Middle School. This course helped students prepare for a career as a LPN working in environments such as nursing homes, doctors' offices, and hospitals. The second course for Health Assistants was for one semester and was open to both juniors and seniors.

The Duel Enrollment Automotive Tech program was offered to both juniors and seniors. The program helped the students learn to identify mechanical problems and make auto repairs. "This class offered a more hands on approach to learning, so there is little classwork to do," stated Jason Kohler, "This was my favorite class by far."

Katherine Talley, Debbie McCaffity, Lacy Lawson, and Clarissa Wilkins attend to a "patient's" needs. This course was very popular with the participating students, " I have learned skills that will last me a life time," stated Wilkins. "Not only did I learn to treat a illness, I learned to treat a person."

Steven Saunders and Jason Kohler pause for a photograph as they search for the correct tool to get the job done.

After assecessing the situation, Reid Clements, Linwood Brown, and Hank Ramsey get ready to make the necessary repairs. DE Automotive program offered a more "hands on" approach to education.

Under the watchful eye of his instructor, Tyree Joyce attempts to repair part of a motor. The DE Automotive program took place at the GMC Training Center.

While displaying the fruits of their labor, Christine Hurst, Fernando Joa, and Armando Joa smile proudly. All three were students in the Horticultural program.

"It is rewarding to work with my brother in the Horticultre program. We helped each other with our work."
-Fernando Joa

Creature Feature

A Variety of "Best Friends"

Flea dips, vet bills, molting feathers, and continuous shedding fur... these are just a few of the "fringe benefits" of owning a pet.

Having a pet was fun but sometimes it was also a hassle. The chewed up shoes and the clawed chairs were the tell-tale signs of pet ownership. Despite these obvious flaws of the domesticated creatures, the companionship was well worth the inconvenience.

The dog was the most commonly owned pet by students. Some students saw their dog as a member of their family. Cats were the second most owned pet by students. They were not always owned in the same house as birds, fish, or small rodents but the typical "cat eats bird" or "cat eats mouse" clichés were not always true.

All pets need affection, and to many are considered to be "best friends".

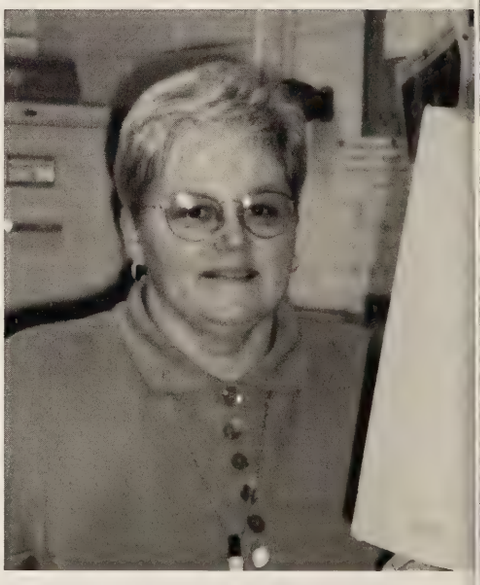
Seniors 1999

Advisory Board: Stephanie Bristow (Treasurer), Carrie Robbins, Kelly Fleming (President), Ashley Eickhof (Vice-President), Michele Bailey, Chudney Youngs (Secretary), Donna Holland, Makena Stew

Having fun at prom, Mrs. Elizabeth Harris stops to smile. She has been the class sponsor for the past four years and put in many hours of hard work.



Prom was very demanding for a class sponsor. Ms. Martha McEwen joined th Class of '99 for this project and stayed to assist with the details of the Senior year.

What's The Plan?

Senior Class Makes It Happen

Sometimes it does take two... The Senior Class of 1999 was co-sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Harris and Mrs. Martha McEwen. Together, they planned for Prom and Graduation to assure a memorable experience for all. They both experienced the major headaches of being class sponsors, the collection of dues, as well as getting the names right for the Senior class sweatshirt, a headache for anyone!

Class dues of $55.00 funded Senior week activities and graduation expenses. The Advisory Board met to decide on all the details of Senior Week, including the Senior breakfast, banquet, and picnic. It was expensive but worth it to "do it right!"

Class officers presided at the banquet where the presentation of gifts to the administration and the Senior Wills were distributed. Reflecting on two years as class treasurer, Stephanie Bristow replied, "the officers worked hard in order to have a successful prom, senior week, and graduation."

The goal was graduation on June 16, 1999 and receiving a diploma. Seniors were NUMBER ONE and everybody knew it!

Bell ringing for the Salvation Army, Jenil Brown and Elizabeth Bering raise mor for the unfortunate. Many Seniors partici pated in community service activities.

Circling the track for the Homecoming Parade, Seniors represent their class with pride. The senior float took first place in the float competition.

On days with nice weather, Seniors enjoy eating lunch on the picnic tables donated the class of 1998. Eating in the courtyard was one of the Seniors' many privileges.

"Bow to Royalty"... this phrase has surfaced every year on Homecoming Day as a new Senior class claimed the crown. The traditional Burger King crowns were worn on the day of the Homecoming Pep Rally. Seniors spent hours decorating their crowns with glitter and school colors. The Senior class took all the honors of Spirit Week and topped it off by taking a royal first in the float competion. The Senior float carried out the storybook theme of "Alice in Wonderland."

The new picnic tables in the court yard gave Seniors a place of their own for lunch. Woe unto underclassmen found seated in the courtyard!

Great pressures also came with the royal throne. Areas of stress included the quest for the perfect grade point average, the perfect SAT score, and most of all the perfect college.

There were also a great deal of financial obligations as well as deadlines to be met by the Seniors. "The prices of SAT fees, class dues, and application fees really add up," commented Senior Amber Cook.

While the Senior year was not all fun and games, members of the class of 1999 participated in many events that will make everlasting memories.

I read of a man who stood to speak at the funeral of his friend.
He referred to the dates on his tombstone from the beginning ...to the end.

He noted that first came the date of his birth and spoke of the second with tears, but he said that what mattered most of all was the dash between those years.

For that dash represents all the time that he spent alive on earth, and now only those who loved him know what that little line is worth.

In The Rearview

Looking Back Over The Years

Once upon a time...we were all young and innocent. Time which passed so slowly in minutes and hours, passed quickly in terms of years. Looking "In The Rearview" we are able to see how many of us looked in our childhood.

The fashions and hairstyles over the past eighteen years have changed tremendously. Fashion has seen fads such as stone washed jeans, M. C. Hammer pants, Cross Colours, stirrup pants, and slouch socks. In addition to the clothes, shoes have also changed. Footwear included various brands of tennis shoes. Popular brands such as L.A. Lights, British Knights, Converse, and Keds were worn with pride.

From boxes to bowlcuts worn by the guys to crimping and side pony tails, which were popular with the girls, hairstyles made statements all their own. Distinctive styles such as the "pineapple" and the "poofy-bangs" were popular in the early nineties.

Every era had its own fashion, and the last two decades were no exception.

Lifelong Friendships Made

Who do you call to go to the movies? Who do you talk to when you are upset? Who is always there for you? Friends stay together, count on each other, and support one another through anything. "I can always count on my friends to pick me up when I am feeling down," commented Aaron Brown. Many students have figured out that there are only a precious few that stay true friends.

On Wednesday, June 16, when the graduates walk down the aisle they will think of the achievements they have made, and the classes they took, but most of all, the people they met. Many friends will always remember the secrets they shared, the laughs they had, and the memories they made.

For the senior class, graduation is the big event. It is the last day that the class will be all together in the same room. Graduation day will be a day of both tears and smiles. Over the past four years at Churchland High School the Class of 1999 has grown together, laughed together, and made some incredible friends that will never be forgotten.

With the coming of graduation, the future of the senior class will lead in many different directions. Some are planning for a college education. Others are joining the military or the work force. Despite these separations many students will make efforts to bridge the distances and remain friends with the people they met in high school. Their lives will be forever changed as a result of their time spent here in Churchland High School.

During a break in class, best friends stop to smile for the camera. Marquita Gonzalez, Aaliyah Womack, and Diane Peele have been friends since elementary school.

Catching a few rays Kip Poole and Ian Fagan lounge in Poole's front yard. Fagan and Poole have been best friends since birth.

Trina Clemons and Shonta Phelps wait for their dinner at a local carnival. Seniors liked the food and activities they found at festivals and carnivals.

When Seniors Hang Out...

What Do You and Your Friends Do When You Hang Out?

Bronte' Davis- "We go to a dance club or shopping and then out to eat."

Kimani Wiggins- "We like to do trendy things like go to cafes and museums."

Ashley Trombitas- "We enjoy going to the movies and shopping at the mall."

Brandon Breland- "I enjoy dancing with my best friend Ashley Eickhof."

Friends since they met, Sarah Hudson and Crystal Gatewood pose for a picture. Hudson and Gatewood like to spend their free time at each others house.

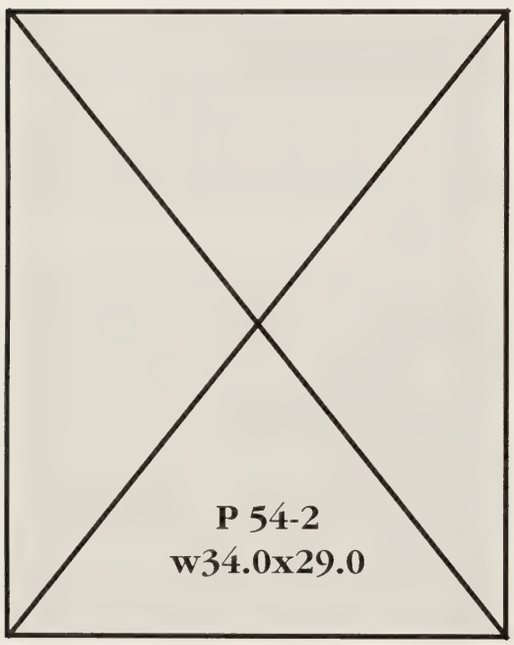
Senioritis Strikes

Epidemic Ends June 16, 1999

Portsmouth, Virginia- Local authorities confirmed today that several students have been infected with a highly contagious disease classified as Senioritis. Rumors of the outbreak had been circulating for several months prompting an investigation by the Center of Disease Control in Atlanta. Experts from the CDC cited over two hundred cases.

Doctors have called the malady an urban legend. Known to affect primarily seniors, it renders its carrier incapable of any studious activity. Students find themselves distracted, drowsy and suffering from memory loss. In extreme cases the carrier can become claustrophobic causing departure from school to more spacious areas including shopping malls and the beach.

Experts have tracked the epidemic's roots going as far back as last spring. Several juniors were noted showing symptoms as early as March 5, 1998. With the start of the new school year on September 8, the carriers began to spread the disease to everyone with whom they came into contact. The CDC estimated that by January 29, 1999 over half of the senior class had been infected. By late May this paralyzing disease had plagued the entire senior class. Mysteriously on June 16th, the epidemic disappeared. All traces of the disease have vanished among the now graduated seniors. However, unconfirmed reports claim that several juniors have already begun to show symptoms of senioritis, which the CDC is investigating.



Fleeing the building for more open spaces, the Seniors decide to have English class at the beach. Many seniors...

Suffering from Senioritis, Kevin Smith and Anthony Burt quit their school work to play "Hand Held Salt Water Fishing." Both seniors contracted the virus very early this September.

In one extreme case, several students infected with the disease rebelled against authority, toliet papering a teacher as well as his classroom.

Juniors

Twenty-five students made up the Junior advisory board. This also included five class officers. Their responsibilities included planning fundraisers and prom. Fundraisers included flower and candle sales. Profits went towards prom expenses. By December the class had raised $1,555.09.

Prom planning fell directly into the hands of the junior class. On December fifteenth a representative from the Marriott came to help students make decisions. Decisions centered around picking a theme, colors, and decorations. A meeting was held almost every Tuesday to continue to make details for prom.

e juniors pulled together at the pep y, carrying both pom poms and loons. The class looked small, mpared to the freshmen, but they re spirited.

the court is announced, candidates nda Wray and Courtney Wynn uit their turn to walk onto the field. Vray was also a representative.her phomore year.

Attempting to give the seniors a run for the money, the juniors' school spirit was raised to an all time high. They participated in spirit week by purchasing spirit links for their first block classes. Many also dressed up for Bama, Retro, Switch, Super Hero/ Cartoon, and Spirit Day. The pep rally also brought out excitement and spirit in many juniors.

Homecoming night was full of excitement with much junior participation. Six representatives competed for the title of Maid Of Honor. Each had an escort to accompany them onto the field. Homecoming representative, Monique Myers said, "I was nervous yet excited about the night". Rachel Paige became 1998's Maid Of Honor. A float made by the junior class was also paraded around the field during halftime. Apart from all the extras sixteen juniors were part of the victorious football team.

Members of the junior class participate in the halftime show as the characters of Snow White. The float won third place in the annual competition.

Kenny Giacolone helps his class by pinning spirit links to the ceiling. Giacolone also played on the boys' volleyball team.

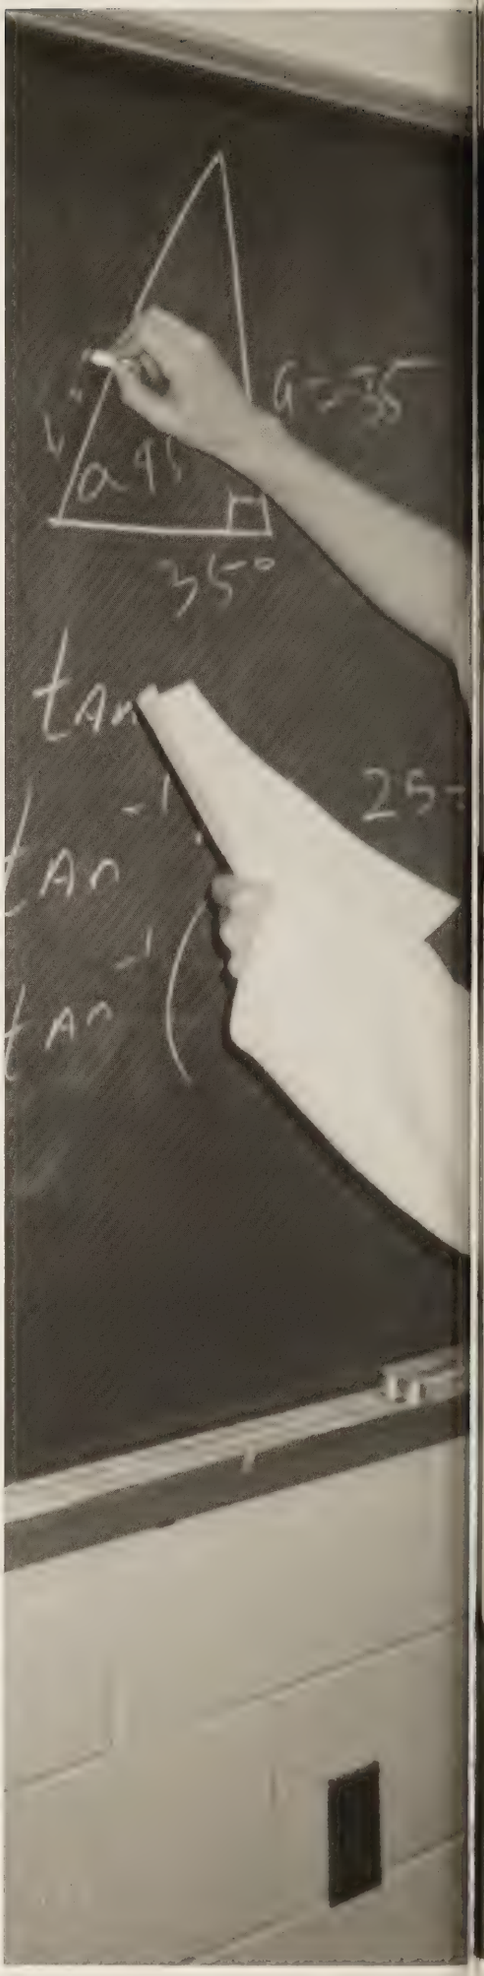
--Class Of 2000--

Practicing for SAT's Lisa Brown and Shatawna Everett use the computer lab for a standardized program. Both girls took SAT's for the first time this year.

Raquel McKeveny and Fallon Harrington check off orders for the fall flower sale. They have been on the advisory board for three years.

Sarah Thurmond fills out an order form for candle sales. Profits of the sales went towards prom. Thurmond was a member of the advisory board.

Focused on the director, Brandon Thornell and Crystal White got the beat as the band entertained in the library. Both students took band year long as an elective.



New Directions

On Track For the Future

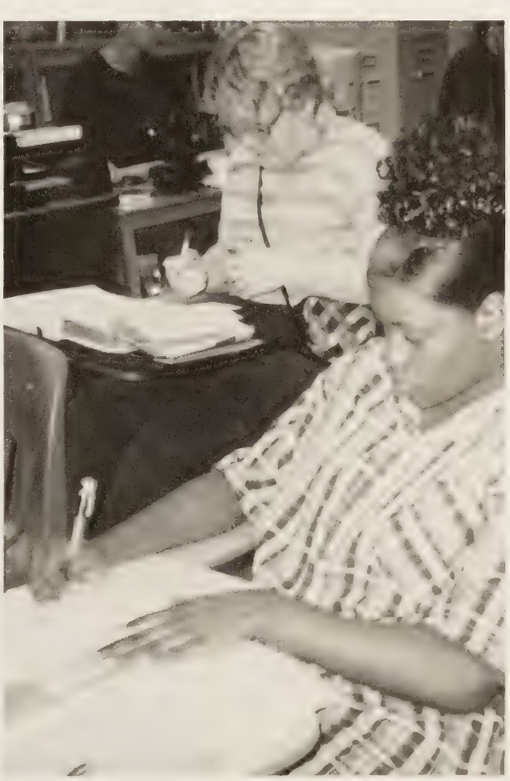
The third year of high school was dominated by decision making. It was a time to begin deciding where to go to college as well as a time to take SAT's and other academic tests. Guidance and career counselors helped students register for SAT's as well as to explore college catalogues.

Juniors chose classes that prepared them for the future. Besides being required to take English 11 and U.S. and Virginia history, students took science, math, foreign language, and electives. These classes were offered as regular, honors, and advanced placement. Andrew Warren chose to take an AP course "because it will save him time and money when he gets to college".

Many juniors had the opportunity to participate in sports and clubs. Eight juniors helped get a new sport off the ground as members of the field hockey team. Kim Johnson said "I felt privileged to be on the team and was interested in learning the skills it required". There were also 30 juniors in National Honor Society. They also had the responsibility to plan prom. They held fundraisers to make money and spent months planning it to perfection.

Michael Shapiro shows his creative side as he spray painted a prop for the homecoming float. Shapiro was a member of the homecoming committee.

Luke Pruitt displays his skill in math by completing a problem. Pruitt took trigonometry, an advanced math class during the first term. Trigonometry was one of the many math courses offered here.



Wrapping up her rough draft for an English paper, Dakota Thomas searches for just the right word. Thomas took Honors English during the fall term.

Sophomores

The sophomore advisory board was responsible for fundraising and class projects. President, Kim Bowers commented that, "Fundraising is going toward many sophomore activities, such as the spring sophomore picnic."

The sophomore class participated in Operation Santa Claus by buying gifts and distributing them to foster children through Social Services. As admission to the sophomore Christmas party, toiletries were collected and donated to the H.E.R. shelter.

Towards the end of the year, the class began fundraising and planning for the prom that they would sponsor in 2000. Class sponsor Ms. Petersen felt that, "The sophomore board...will have no problems planning a prom in 2000."

-- Class Of 2001 --

A sophomore table at lunch was the source of much gossip and discussion. Lunch, though only twenty eight minutes long, was a welcome break from classes.

As first year art students, Mark Cummings and Marianne Schander work on perspective drawing as one of the elements of the course.

School spirit was very evident on Switch Day. Posing for the photographer, Catherine Booth and Patrick Comstock paused in the science lab.

Putting the finishing touches on her science fair project, Shamelia Outland is ready to turn it in to Mr. Rhodes. Each year science students are required to complete a project.

The Wise Fools

Two Years Down...Two to Go

The word sophomore really does mean "wise fool." Sophomores were wiser than freshmen, but were they more foolish than juniors or seniors? Amie DaSilva felt, "...we are smart, have a good sense of what to do and where we are going, but we make foolish mistakes..."

Age should yield privilege, but there were very few privileges for being in tenth grade. One of the few privileges of being a sophomore was getting a driver's license. Students generally got a learner's permit during their freshmen year and an actual license during their sophomore year. "I'm looking forward to getting my license because that means I will have more freedom and I won't have to rely on my parents for rides everywhere," commented Catherine Booth.

At the end of the sophomore year, students begin thinking more about what they were going to do after high school. During the year, sophomores took PSAT's. This was a glance at the SAT's awaiting them in the next few years. Soon, members of the sophomore class would be thinking about colleges and careers.

Students put thought into scheduling their classes. They took classes that would prepare them for jobs as well as college. By the end of the year, it was most important for sophomores to begin planning for their future. The wise fools prepared for the years ahead.

Helping Peter Foytik and Jeremy Root with a problem, Coach Broady explains th basics of technical drawing. Many sopho mores chose the class as an elective.

Preparing for the Homecoming game, Porchia Williams, Lindy Campbell, and Megan Watts fix balloons. The SCA sold balloons and megaphones for the game.

A combined effort by sophomores, Holly Farrell, Amber Short, and Erica Pankratz produced a double page spread for photojournalism.

Helping out the team, team manager Lewis Achorn shows his school spirit on the sidelines. Lewis, a sophomore, was also a member of the one-act play cast.

Freshmen

A generous donation by the Class of 1998 enabled the Class of 2002 to begin their high school career with money in the bank. This removed one stress factor by making fundraising and homecoming float much easier for class sponsorMs. Marilyn Watts.

The first order of business was to elect class officers and to recruit members for the class advisory board. Tiffany Cuffee, the president, felt that "All the officers and members were very willing and dedicated to their jobs."

The advisory board met to help make the class strong. It took many hours after school to plan events. Ms. Watts added, "The Class of 2002 has the power to make themselves great."

Mission Control

A new face greeted students in the halls right after Thanksgiving break. Robert Shepperd III arrived from Elizabeth City, North Carolina to fill a vacancy in the administration. As the new assistant principal, Mr. Shepperd quickly made his presence felt.

When asked what he liked best about his new school, Mr. Shepperd replied "meeting new students...all kinds of students: the good ones and the not so good ones."

Mr. Shepperd's responsibilities included ninth grade discipline, child study, bus supervision, and fundraiser approval. He also inherited scheduling hall duty for the faculty.

Arriving at the school halfway through the first semester might have been a problem for some, but Mr. Shepperd adapted quickly to the regimen with learning the names of students and faculty.

The administrative team welcomed Mr. Shepperd as the discipline among grade levels was divided among the assistant principals.

A special individual and effective administrator, Mr. Shepperd fit right into the CHS.

Talking with parents was a daily routine for administrators. Assistant principles had to follow up on any problems which involved students.

Sharing a laugh Mr. David Joyner stops by the hall monitor station during Mr. Alven Seller's watch. Hall duty was a "necessary evil."

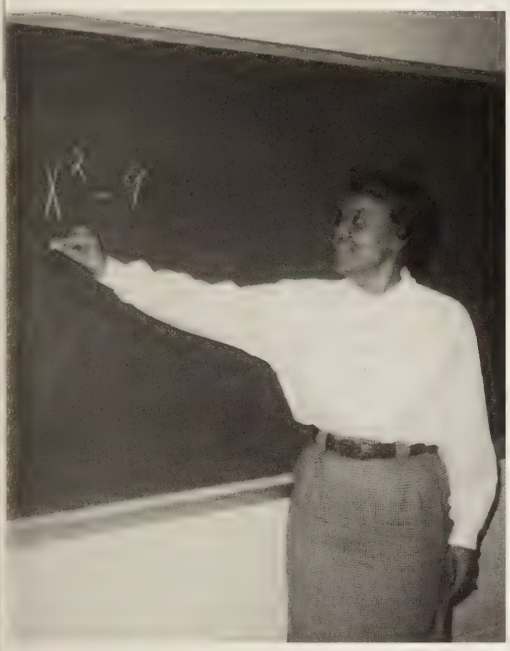
Principal Raymond Hale fills his plate at the prom buffet table. Prom was a chance for the administration to have fun with the students.

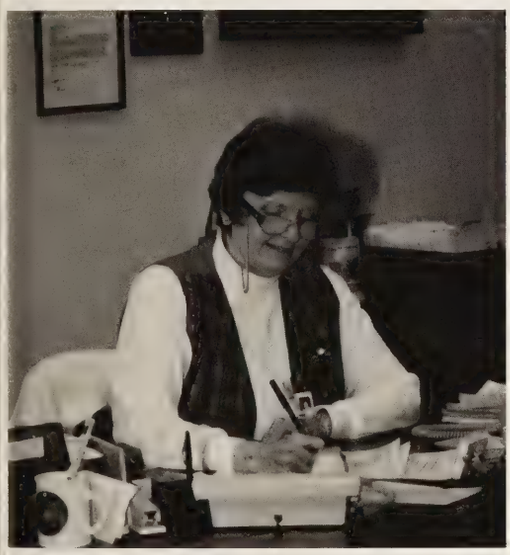
Tour Guides

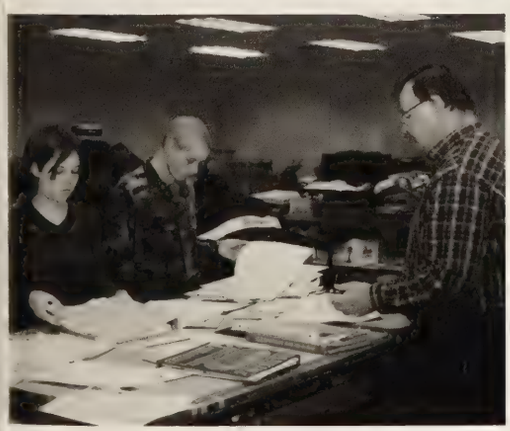
Direction for the Future

Factoring exponents, Ms. Barbara Copeland, works it out for her class. Ms. Copeland taught Algebra II and Algebra Foundations this year.

It was not easy to run the main office but Mrs. JoAnn Ashby did that and served as Mr. Hale's secretary. Taking phone messages was just one of her many duties.







Recomendations, scholarship opportunities and career goals were often subjects of discussion between faculty members and students. Teachers did make a difference in the lives of many students, not just through instruction, but through private conversations. Supporting students in a variety of ways the faculty and staff created many positive memories.

How often did faculty members get asked, "Would you write a recommendation for me?" This was just one of the ways that faculty members directly assisted students. Another way in which students were assisted was through Social Studies contest coordinator, Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, who regularly encouraged students to enter contests for cash as well as for scholarships.

ACCESS advisor, Mrs. Anita Aymer kept seniors up to date with their FAFSA applications. Without this paper work, students could now receive financial aid for college.

From the main office to the cafeteria, the focus of staff and administration was to provide a safe and positive learning environment. Teachers and para-professional served as hall monitors through out the year. It was a necessary hassle which helped to regulate traffic in the halls.

A cooperative effort by faculty students and staff made CHS a special school and a source of many memories.

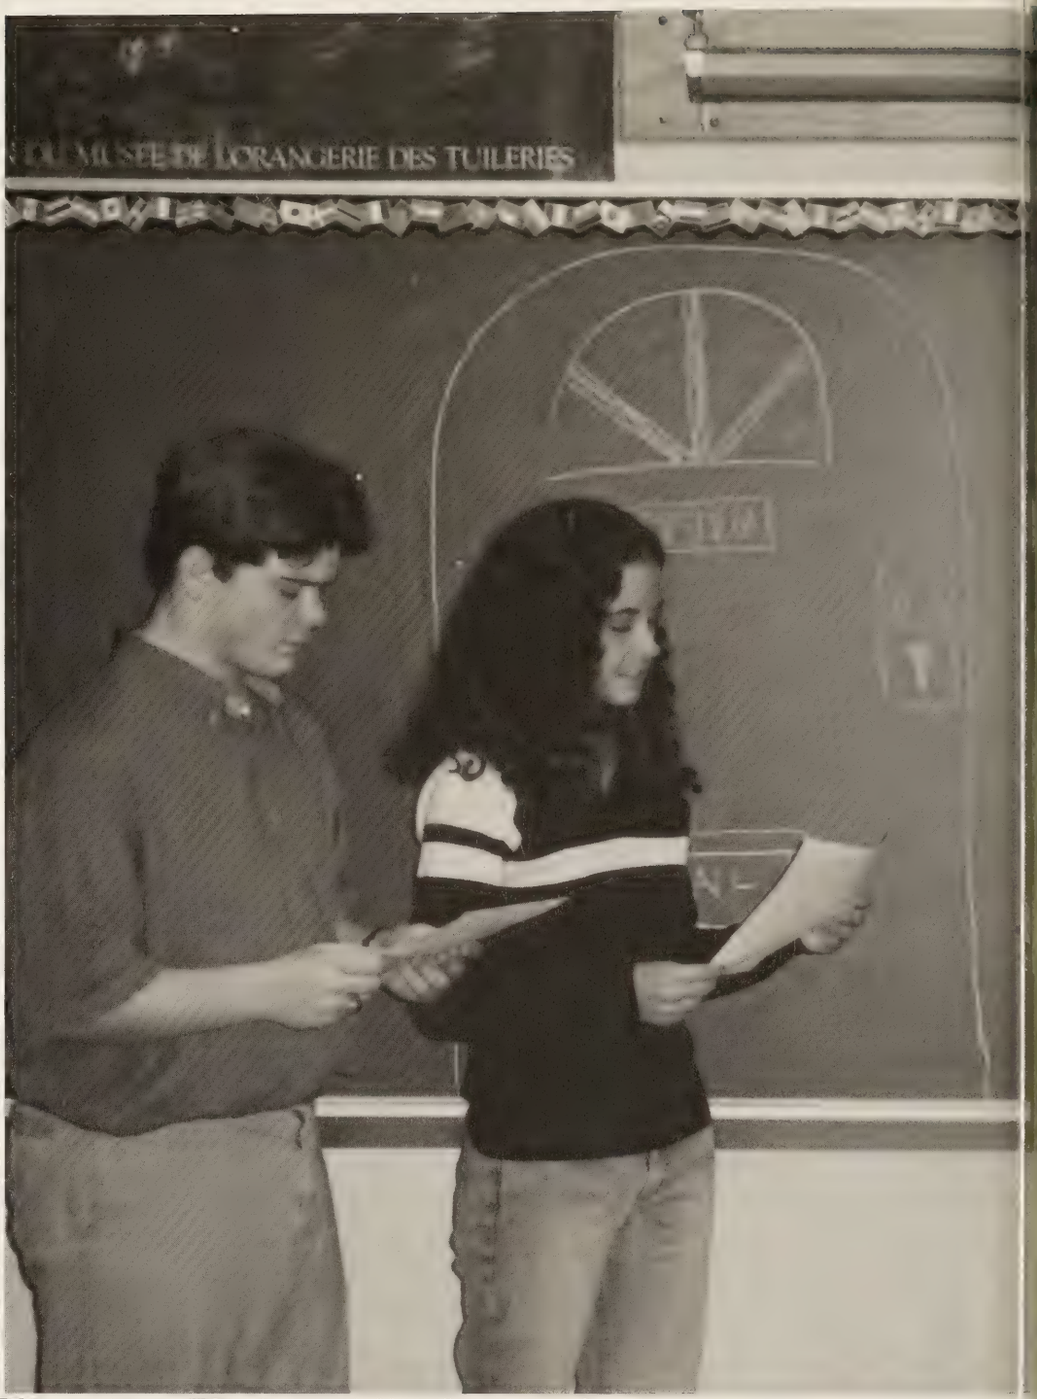
Looking for just the right screen to print Devon Harriman and Patrick Kampman check out the books provided by Mr. Ray McGinley.

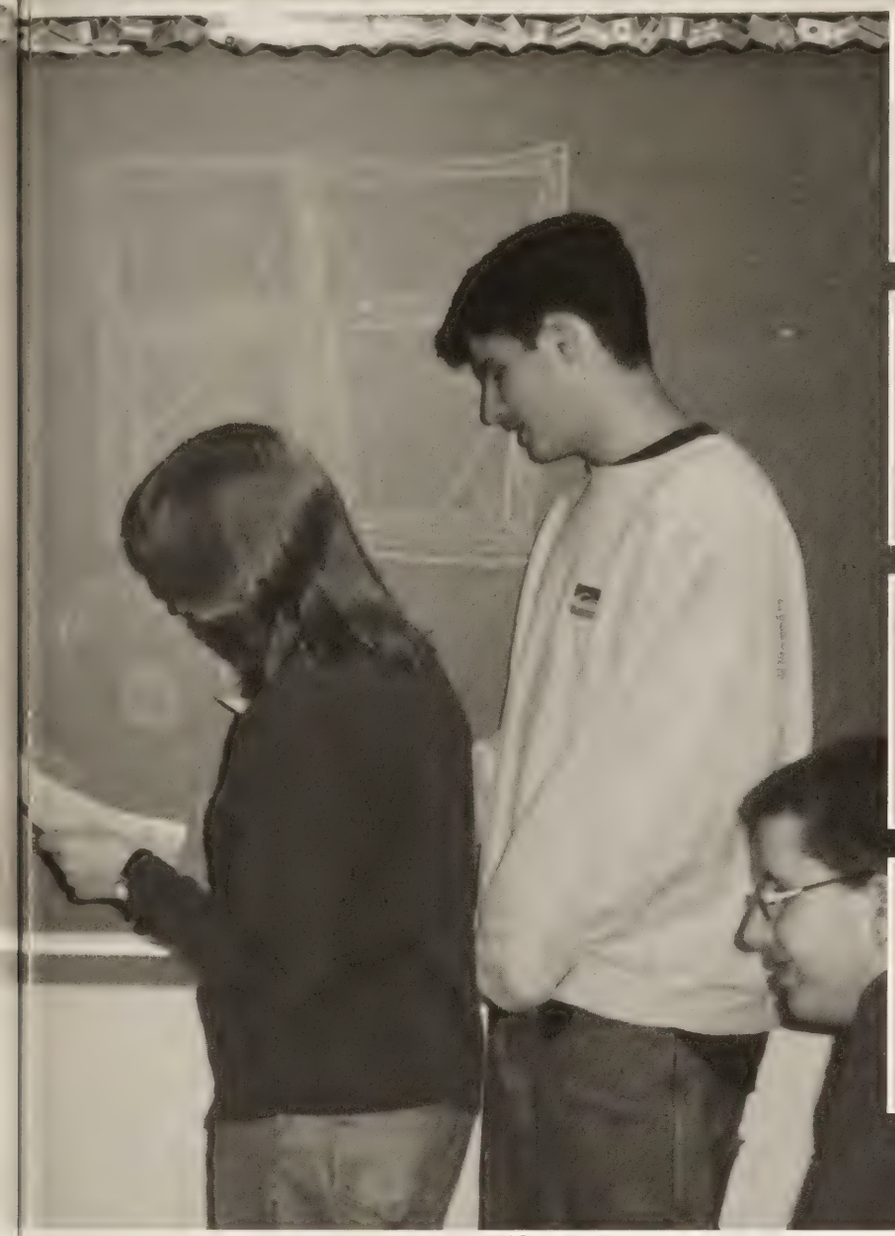
Lesson plans were a major part of teacher's workload. Mr. Carl Rhodes worked on S.O.L. correlation during his planning period.

The academic countdown was by minute, hour, day, and month. Goals were met and the months eventually passed by. For seniors the goal of June graduation was the most important event of the year. For others, the completion of another graduation requirement was counted as true academic success.

There were many different types of classes from which to choose. Students could also choose the type of diploma that they wished to pursue.

Whether a class was an elective or a requirement, passing the course was the target and a milestone to be met.





What career do you see yourself in ten years from now, and why?

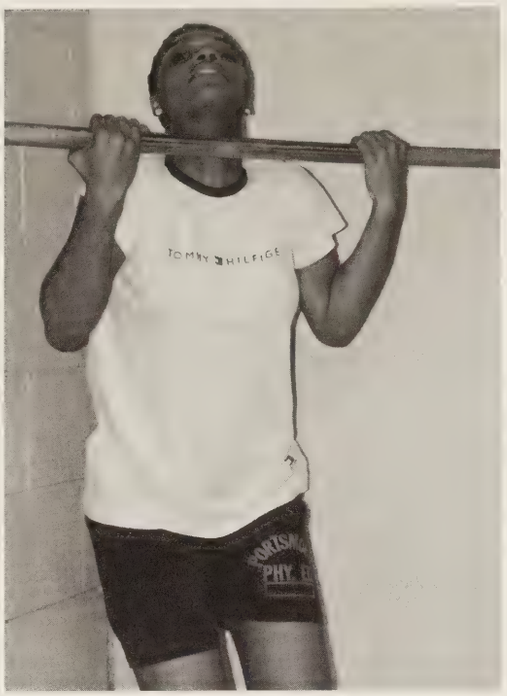
Headed in the Right Direction

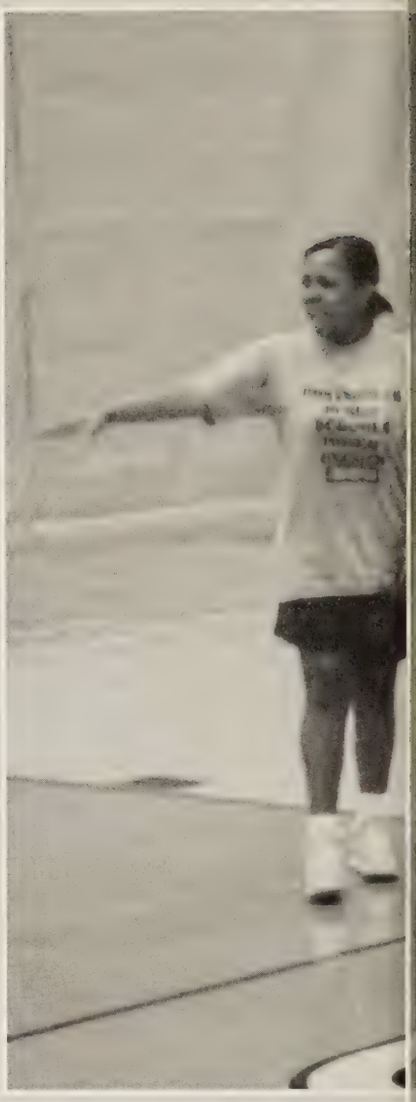
Academics

Up she goes. Victoria Silver strives to hold on for the longest time in the flexed arm hang. This exercise replaced pull-ups for girls.

Christien Hawkins considers the benefits of having a driver's license. This became a major goal for students taking Drivers Education.

Felicia Trent, Thelma Jordan, and Marie Hill play "Speed Ball." This game combined the rules of football, soccer, and baseball. It became a great way to have fun and become physically fit.





Warming It Up

Exercising the Mind and Body

1,2,3,4....this count echoed in the gym at the start of class. Stretches and endurance exercises were performed before the daily gym activity. The daily stretches such as the V-sit, lunge, and the right over left toe touch prevented muscle cramps. Push-ups and running helped to build strength and endurance.

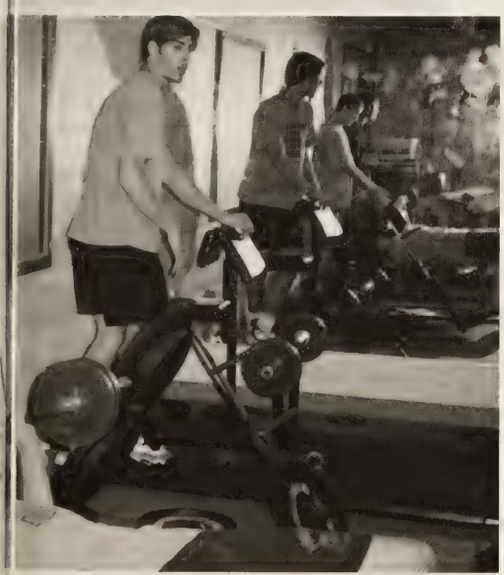
2,2,3,4....the class then began with either a sports unit or fitness testing. These tests included not only warm-up exercises, but also a mile run around the track, and the new flexed arm hang. The flex arm hang has taken the place of pull-ups for girls. Instead of pulling themselves over the bar, girls hung onto the bar with their elbows bent, hanging eight seconds for passing and twelve seconds for passing in excellence. The flexed arm hang was only for girls, the boys still had to endure the regular pull-ups.

3,2,3,4... Wednesday marked the day that the gym week ended and Health and Drivers Education began. The freshman studied the body, peer pressure, drugs, and alcohol. Sophomores studied road signs, car parts, and street regulations. In their class, they made personalized license plates and roads signs.

4,2,3,4....Weight Training was a class that built muscle strength and endurance. "Taking weight training helps me play better on the football team," said Josephus Washington.

September

Gym Weight Training Drivers Education



Coach William Strickland emphasizes fitness to Darius Edwards. Guys had to master pull-ups, mile run, push-ups, curl-ups, and v-sit reach.

Robert Kyle spots Justin Peszko participating in a daily warm up exercise. Peszko generally completed ten presses per five-minute period.

October

Biology Physics Chemistry Earth Science Ocenography

Working on a lab in physics, Carrie Robbins, Michael Shapiro, Andrew Warren, and Luke Pruitt display teamwork. Labs were often done as a group activity.

Becky Netterville reviews her Biology science fair project. Biology students were required to display their data and pictures on a poster board.

Sabrina Andrews and Derek Wyman use a thermometer to measure temperatures. Andrews and Wyman had to record their analysis when they finished.

a helping hand, Jerri Davis looked my Wilson's Biology worksheet. ng one another was beneficial to both students, Kip Poole, Meliza erun, and Jeanhei Dabbaugh, studied through a lab experiment.

Surprising Science

Experiments and Research

Another project...OH NO! The science fair was the annual opportunity for budding biologists, chemists, and physicists to present experiments and research in school, local, and regional competitions. Student efforts ranged from a comparison of the distance traveled by golf balls to a study of bacteria taken from a floor and how effective various soaps were in killing bacteria.

Outside the classroom there were numerous field trip opportunities. Physics students could travel to Busch Gardens where they would evaluate the speed of the roller coasters. A fringe benefit of this trip was a free day at the theme park.

Students in Mrs. Barbara Taber's oceanography class regularly "went to sea." They went aboard the "Baywatcher" to observe the marine environment and to hopefully get a glimpse of a whale. When asked about the trip, Tony Black said, "Even though it was cold, I learned a lot about the Chesapeake Bay." While informative, the March trip did not accomplish its goal of seeing a whale.

Class labs were another important aspect of the science curriculum. Students dissected frogs and earthworms in biology lab. Mixture separtion labs were held as part of the chemistry course. Students actually burned out part of the mixture and analyzed the parts and the mass that remained.

Daisha Gorham, Tiffney White, and Kenny Edmonds whip up a sweet treat in Catering class, while Shae Sayre washes up. Catering allowed students to broaden their culinary horizons. Students enjoyed making and eating their delicious treats.

Chanaye Soloman reads over a worksheet for Parenting class, while holding her flour baby. Being able to know the right action to take with a child was essential.

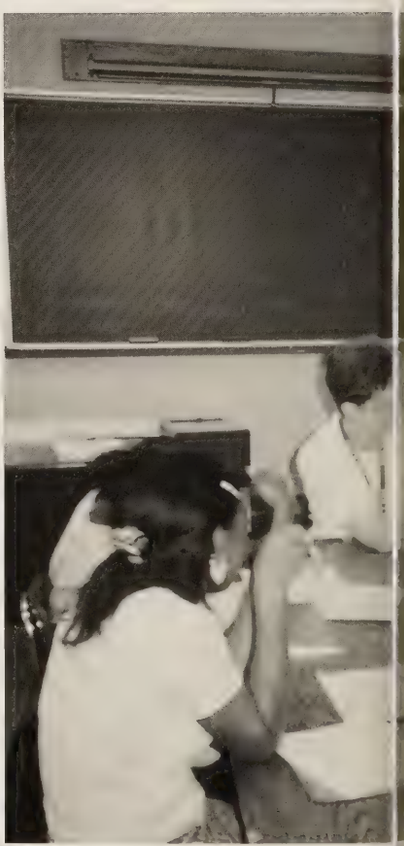
The Road Home

Learning More About Life

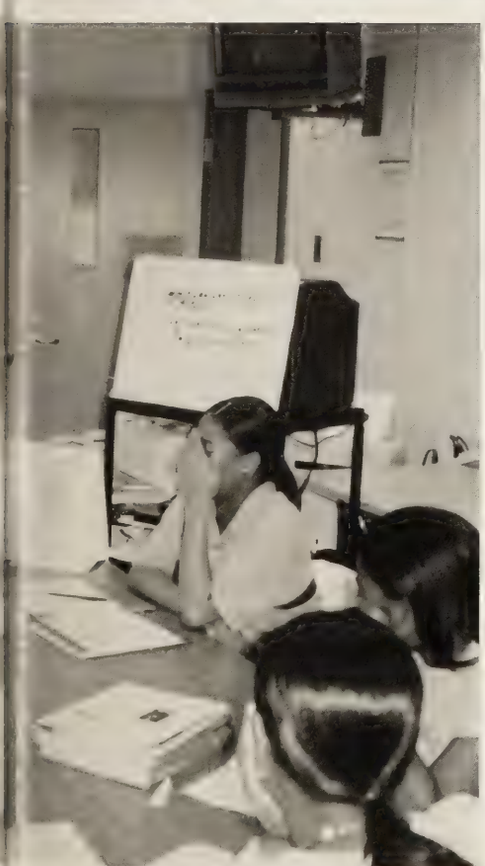
What is that smell? Ohh....must be the Catering class again. Cooking, sewing, and parenting were all part of the Home Economics course. The GRADS class was required to carry around flour babies for a week to become familiar with parenting. Catering took orders for Calzones, breads, cakes, and other treats. When asked how Catering was beneficial to everyday life JaSaundra Redwood replied, "I cook for my family more because now I know how to do it."

In preparation for the holidays, students made holiday cakes, cookies, and hot-cross buns. Student orders were picked up during their lunch or after school. Mrs. Beverly Holloway taught Catering. The class enabled students to reenact their Life Management skills. Only seniors could participate in the class. Students also prepared a pasta dinner for the Varsity football players on Friday afternoons. Additionally, the Catering class took on the responsibility of "catering" school events such as club parties, special meetings, or faculty luncheons.

In Mrs. Laura Dean's Parenting class, students studied nutrition for children and teens. Using charts, food pyramids, and nutritional value guides, students became familiar with proper care for the child's health.



Andrea Wilson learned first hand what it was like to have a child. All Parenting students participated in the project by caring for flour babies.



Christina Wong precisely pours milk into a measuring cup. This was her first year taking a Home Economics Class.

Laura Dean reviews the food pyramid to her students in GRADS. In GRADS, students learned about good health and life planning.

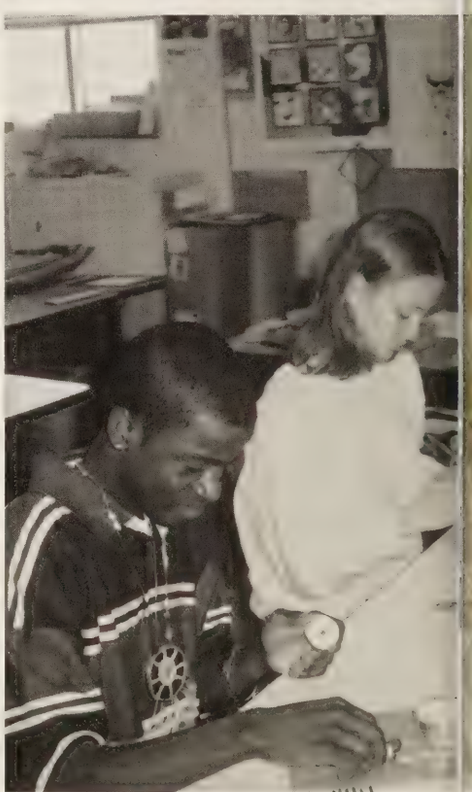
Drama Band Chorus Orchestra Art

In Drama class, Melissa Harrell and Sherena Downey work on improvisations. Students were given a scenen to act out without a script.



Students enjoy making jewelry. Art I students Bridget Foster and Duriel Mills concentrated on threading handmade beads onto string to make necklaces.

Second year Magnet student, Amanda Robinson practices her solo in front of the class. Robinson replied, "Orchestra is a fun and interesting class and I have learned many things in my two years of playing violin."

Practicing for their up coming winter concert, Ricardo Brown conducts the brass section. The band stayed after school and practiced for numerous hours.

New Disciplines

Growth in the Fine Arts

Practicing for the Ms. Churchland pagent Amanda Turner and Reginald Earls sing "100 Years of Broadway." The chorus provided entertainment for the pagent.

It sounded classy, and it was... The Fine Arts courses gave students the forum for emotional interpretation and expression. Practice and drill were essential to Chorus, Band, and Orchestra, as well as Art and Drama. The disciplined student was ultimately the most successful student.

Band, Chorus, and Orchestra students practiced not only for performances, but also for competitions. At the District Festival, band students competed on level 6, which was the highest level of competition; therefore it was the most complicated and difficult. Orchestra students competed on level 4.

Art and Drama offered a totally different type of style. Art history, appreciation, and form were a few of the main things emphasized in the Art department. Classes ranged from Art1 to Ceramics and African American Art Experience.

Overcoming stage fright, while giving students skills to become good actors were a few of the things Drama class offered its students. This year drama produced full production entitled "Behind the Acne." The play reflected the problems, joys, loves, and hates of a typical high school student. The Fine Arts program presented an opportunity to express feelings as talent was being developed.

Moving Ahead

Looking into the Future

Many opportunities are available for students who wish to explore the areas of business and technology. Students could establish fundamental skills in math, science and even engineering by taking these courses. Some classes concerning technology included Computer Systems, Production Systems, Technical Drawing and Architectural Drawing. To answer word problems and formulas and to test their crafting skills, students made woodcrafts, built bridges, and tested the speed of moving objects such as cars.

Available business courses included Word Processing, Office Administration, Keyboarding, Business Law and Management, Accounting, Computer Information Systems, and C.O.E., which stands for Cooperative Office Education. Linette Curtis said, "The best part of working in COE is you get more respect from the teachers, you're treated more like an adult, and you get more privileges."

Business classes allowed students to enhance their typing and computer skills. Keyboarding introduced the student to the computer. For practice students typed business letters, memos, and data tables. Technology and Business classes gave many students a chance to move ahead.

Coach Broady helps Jay Samonte and Kip Poole in an interesting assignment fo Architecture Drawing class.

January

Technology Buisness

I Keyboarding, Mrs. Fields assists Marcus Plummer in a typing exercise. These exercises allowed students to become familiar with the new keys they learned on the keyboard.

Focusing their thoughts on the assignment, Erica Hardy and Shalimar Bray type carefully and quickly. Typing emphasized speed as well as accuracy.

Architectural Drawing, Demetrius Pitchett plays a class related computer game. Students got to enjoy the games when class assignments were finished.

Production Systems, Thomas Eich cuts a piece of wood using the band saw. Students used many other machines in this class such as the sander.

Febrruary

History Economics Government

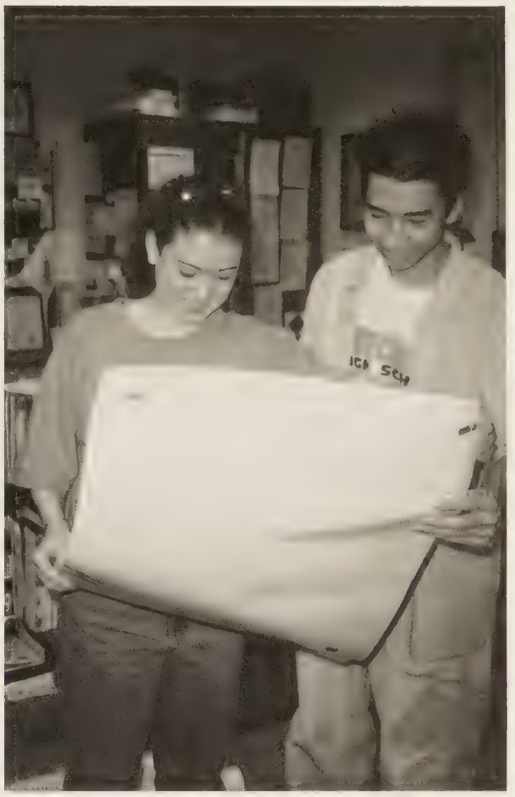
The number of countries in the world changes rapidly. Chris Paige points out an Asian location to Julie Thompson and Randall Cotton.

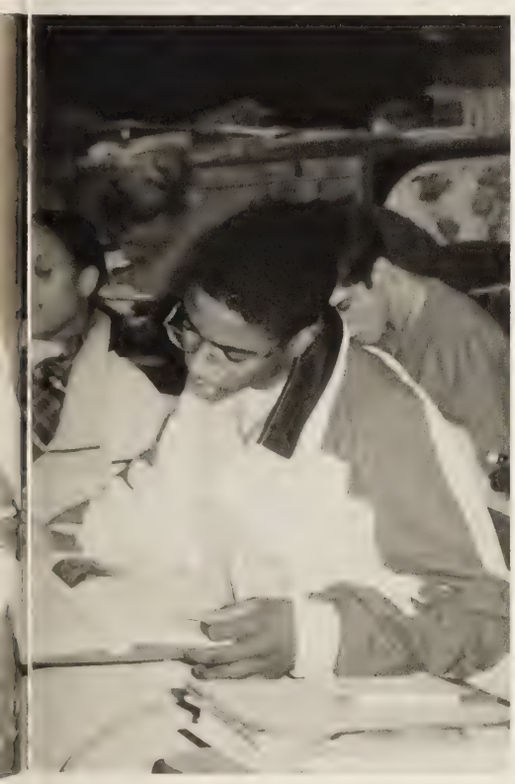
Pointing out the paragraph which contained the answer, Mrs. Mary Korty helps Antonio Parker. Parker was a freshmen enrolled in World History Honors.

Discussing the basics of American Government, Mr. Larry Outten helps Charles Alston, Genelle August, and Michelle Bazemore. Mr. Outten retired this year after having taught for twenty-six years.

Coach Ken Taylor's African-American History class works on a cultural worksheet. Black History month was only one of the topics emphasized in this course.

Juniors Rebecca Long and Kenneth Wong look over a poster of the Declaration of Independence in AP History.





Track the Past

Understanding Our World

Past, present, or future...the Social Studies Department had it all. Current events were the basis for all classes. With the trial of President Clinton headlining the news, Dual-Enrollment Government student Carol Goodwin felt, "It brings up a lot of good discussions...about the process of impeachment and trials, and why it is going on." Textbooks were instantly out of date as history was being made.

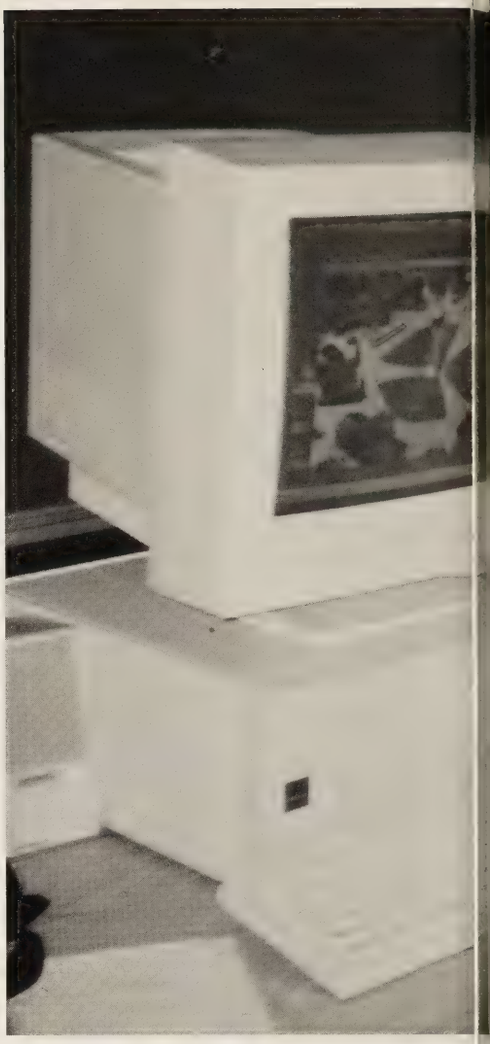
Coach Ken Taylor taught African-American History. The February celebration of Black History Month created cultural awareness for students. Transis Clemons chose this course because she wanted to know about the contributions of African-Americans in history.

Block scheduling posed a real challenge to World History teachers as four-thousand recorded years of global history was condensed into eighteen weeks of classes. World Geography teachers taught the locations and cultures of over two hundred other countries.

Advanced Placement US History was taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Harris and Ms. Tracey Dussia. Students had to prepare for the national exam given each May. This class boosted GPA's, and a passing grade helped students to get a head start on their college credits.

The quiet of the library proved helpful as Jay Samonte studies for the final exam in Helen Luster's Calculus class.

Participating in a SAT Prep program, Tesha Allen and Suzanne DeCopain use a graphing calculator to solve a Trigonometry problem. Graphing calculators were a vital commodity for upper level math students.



March into Math

Technology Emerges on Top

Math...easy for some but challenging for most. There were those who had a talent for math and actually did not need to use a calculator, but no one wanted to admit to that. Algebra I, II, Geometry, Trigonometry, and AP Calculus were the core courses in this department.

Math was often viewed as the key to the future. In addition to being a diploma requirement, math prepared students for college. As a freshman, taking Algebra II, Antonia Gaines said, "It's cool because I love the challenge!"

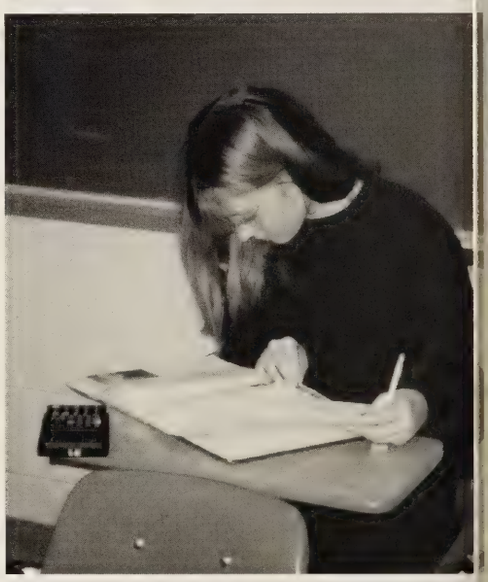
Math courses brought complication and frustration as well as a challenge to students.

Career opportunities were numerous in math related fields. The mastery of a difficult subject could easily lead to high sallary jobs.

Y 1= (3x-1) (16x-46); SIN^2x= 1-COS^2x.

The language of math ranged from the obviously simple to the complex. While students used English in Math classes, their main focus was on the specific terms related to each subject.

Math was an inescapable part of daily life. W2's, tax forms, balancing a check book, and computing hourly wages were just a few of the math challenges faced by those in "the real world."



Marie Friel refers to the back of the textbook for help on a challenging Trig. problem. The calculator was a vital part o Math classes.

Raquel McKenvey and Sean Bandura compare answers as part of a group activit in Trig. Students often learned quicker from their peers.

The Extra Mile

An Extended School Day

For the past six years, the Fine Arts Magnet program has been operating until 4 P.M. Monday through Friday. A dance program was added this past fall joining the music and art programs.

Dance was directed by Gail Harts and took place at her local studio. Nineteen students learned aspects of dance and performed at the annual Winter Concert given to the PTSA and the student body.

The Visual Arts Magnet program continued to turn out outstanding student artists. The curriculum included art history, studio work, drawing, and media exploration. Projects were the key element for study and exhibition. "Art gives me a chance to express my feelings and explore new ideas," said Ian Cross.

The Music Magnet consisted of individual vocal and instrumental study. Fifteen vocal and twenty-six instrumental students worked at levels far beyond the classroom to prepare for juries. "Being in the Performing Arts Magnet is a wonderful experience. We are taught the fundamentals of music history, music compositions, and analyzation. We are well on our way to composing our own music," says James Clarke. The availability of private lessons was another aspect of the Music Magnet Program. Each student received private instruction once a week in his/her area of study. Music students benefited from private lessons to become better musicians.

Directed by Mrs. Betty Shifferly and teachers, this after hour's program has been growing annually in the number of participants and the range of their talents.

Keeping the beat, Brandon Thornell plays for classes on the last day before Christmas break.

Tamiera Bost pays close attention to her brush strokes as she creates an oil painting. Advanced Art II students mastered the technique to produce exquisite artwork.

Loading dirt out of a truck Unique Reid works hard to get the job done. Reid worked outside throughout the year.

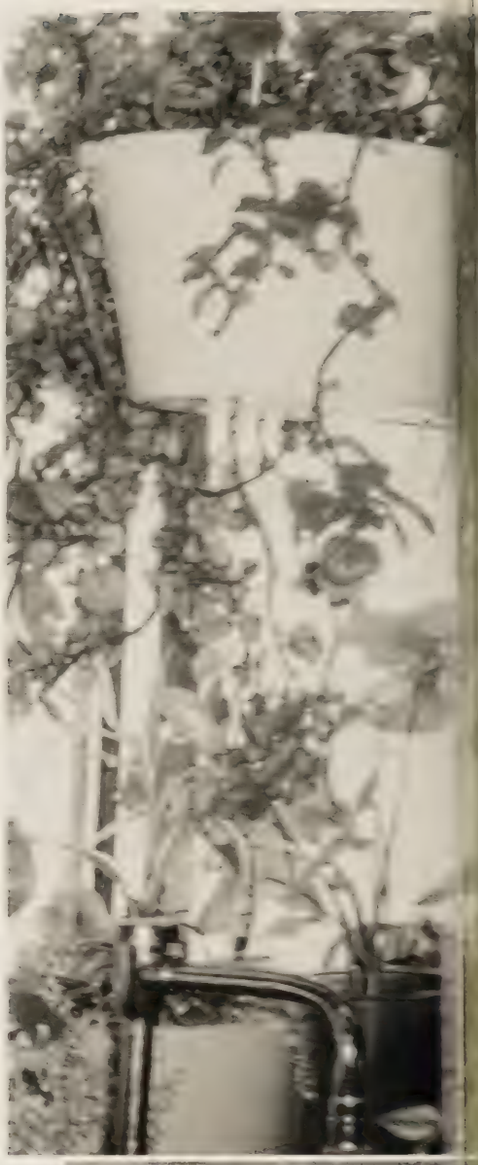
Durelle Lee shovels dirt into a potted plant. Lee regularly worked with the plants that were taken care of in the school. He was taught by both Mrs. Sebastian and Mr. Burnham.

Sonya Garris concentrates at a work station. Garris worked with the number activity to improve her math skills.



A Helping Hand

Guides to New Horizons

The largest department in the school was the Resource Department headed by Mr. Mike Reynolds. This department handled the needs of special students. The paraprofessionals and teachers faced daily challenges in creating activites to meet the needs of their students.

The Resource Department met the needs of the hearing impaired, sight impaired, and physically challenged students. Interpreters, aids, and teachers assisted the students in learning not only basic skills to help them in the future but also with the core academic requirements.

The Resource Department encouraged the students to interact with other individuals in the school. They helped the students by getting them involved in different activities. Electives such as Life Management and Technology benefited the students by teaching life skills. Students took academic classes including some Advanced Placement classes. Math, English, Social Studies, and Physical Education were a regular part of their curriculum.

There were one hundred forty-seven students who were enrolled in the Resource Department. Fifty percent of these students were working under individual education plans while others were working towards advanced studies diplomas. Most students in this department were working towards graduation and their diploma.

Brandy Taylor helps out the office by collecting the attendance. Taylor picked up the attendance from each class everyday throughout the school.

Marketing Frenzy

Business and Fashion Fun

Own your own business? Become a fashion designer? Marketing courses offered introductory information for a variety of careers within the world of business and marketing.

Fashion Marketing was a class created to introduce students to the entire clothing design process from the first idea to the actual creation of the garment and its display in a store. "In Fashion Marketing we were taught essential skills such as fitting the customer's need and building clientele," commented Jan Pittman.

The Fashion Marketing students were able to participate in field trips to Washington D.C. and New York City. While in New York students met designer Thomas McLellon who talked with the students about fashion design and showed how he created designs on a computer. Students also met the marketing staff of YM magazine and learned about the problems of photo shoots and modeling.

In Business Marketing classes, students learned how to write a resume, conduct a job interview, as well as how to manage franchised or self owned businesses. "In Advanced Marketing, I learned the skills that I will need for a Business Management and Marketing major in college.," said senior Della Gregory.

"R" For Reading

Extra Language Assignments

English ought to have been easy. It was, after all, the native tongue, but the study of English...the language and the literature...took hours of concentrated effort. Student slearned enverything from sentence structure to Shakespeare in their English classes. The time factor made it necessary to have a summer reading list for advanced level classes. Sunshine and the out of doors accompanied "A Midsummer Night' Dream" for seniors taking AP Enlgish. Junior honors English students read "The Great Gatsby." Honors level sophomores read "Rebecca" and "Cyrano de Bergarac."

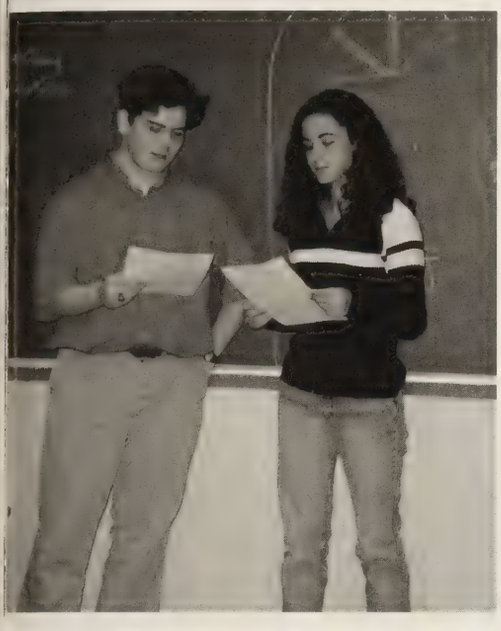
Other English Department courses were hands-on. Creative Writing, mass Media, and Journalism fell into this category. The publication of "The Orange Peel" and "The Mighty Trucker" introduced students to deadlines and journalistic writing.

In foreign language classes, grammer, literature and culture were taught. Teachers used traditional vocabulary quizzes and tests as well as creative projects to help students become fluent in French and Spanish and able to communicate in Latin.

Chantel Brining, Charis Gilliard and Marie Friel play an SAT Prep game. SAT Prep was a class that helped students get ready for the big test.

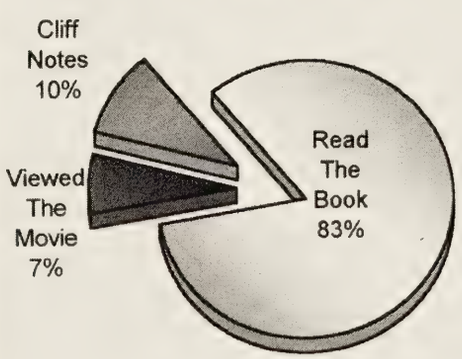
Martha Phibb's tutors students with French flash cards. Fernando Joa studies quietly in the library. Whether by themselves or with teachers, students will try any means to study.

While participating in a Friday dialogue activity James Clarke and Rebecca Foster recite a French conversation. This was a way to practice speaking and pronunciation.



Marquita Gonzalez takes notes in her Spanish IV Honors class. Any student who wanted to expand their Spanish skills could take this class.

Matthew and Patrick Shea took a short cut for English summer reading. Whether to read or use cliff notes became a decision students were forced to make.



Homecoming was one of the several football games that MJROTC participated in. At the game, they presented the flag and formed a sword arch for the Homecoming Court.

MJROTC Equals Success

Sponsored by the United States Marine Corps, the military science program included many benefits for those enrolled. The program was open to all students and offered MJROTC I-V. Instructors helped students perfect map and compass reading skills. An imperative part of the discipline involved basic military courtesy. "I have learned a lot of vital skills in the MJROTC program," stated Doug Cobb. "These skills will help me succeed in whatever I may do in life."

Competitions in drill, rifle shoots, and a Ropes and Initiatives Course were also offered through the MJROTC program. Those who participated traveled to military bases up and down the eastern seaboard to partake in such competitions. The hard work that the teams put into these events was evident in the awards and honors that they have won.

The MJROTC program was definitely not a course for everyone. It took hard work and self-discipline to be able to succeed. However, upon completion of the program, the rewards were endless.

Part of the MJROTC curriculum included uniform wear and care. Uniforms were inspected weekly by the ranking members in each class.

Maps help complete trips on time and give the freedom to go where one wishes to go. Hours of practice and training are necessary if one is to compete in sports and especially if one wants to go the extra mile and be a champion.

In order to achieve excellence, athletes were required to put many hours into practices. Whether staying after school or working hard on the weekends, Truckers reached their goals.

From Anthony Burt's record setting high jump to district champions in boys and girls Volleyball and Cheering, the Truckers stayed on course.

Breaking across the line, The Trucker offense rushes to make the first down. The Varsity football team won half of their games this season.

Churchland Goes 5-2

The season ended on a high when the Varsity squad went 5-0 for their last five games. A major victory was the 28-12 win at Homecoming over the Norview Pilots. "Missing the playoffs by only one game was disappointing but it turned out to be a good season after all," remarked place kicker Kurt Straub.

Team standouts included running back Marcus Doxie and linebacker Darius Edwards. Two players were honored with spots on the All-District team. Senior offensive tackle Eric Casterlow and Senior defensive tackle Ronald Crenshaw were joined by juniors Darvis Edwards, Brandon Hall, Rashawn Morris, and Kurt Straub on the All-District roster. Marcus Doxie received All-District Honorable Mention.

The Truckers grew during the season and became a formidable opponent. Team strenthes included a strong defense and an effective running game. Special teams regularly held their own with punting, field goals, and solid returns. Offense and defense played a balanced season and the cooperative effort became more evident as the season progressed.

With twelve Seniors graduating the team was left with a bench of eighteen possible returns. This was good reason to anticipate the Fall 1999 season.

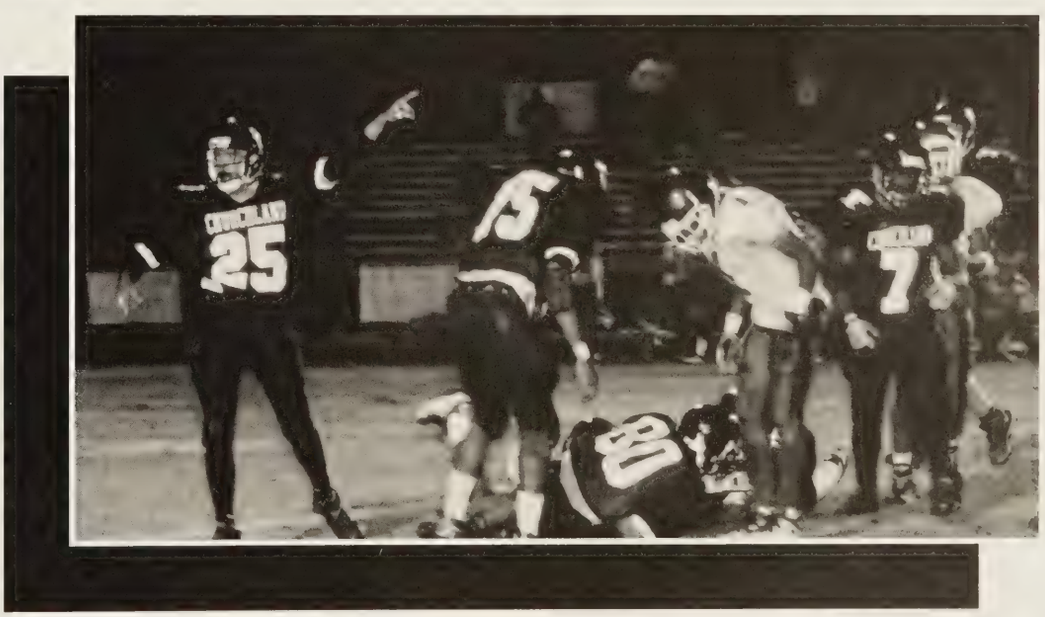
With a close eye on his players, head coach Ken Taylor made sure his team stretched properly before the game.



Ray McCoy was in position to stop the opponent's attempt to block a try for the extra point. McCoy was also a tight end and defensive back for the Truckers.

Celebrating the team's advancement of the ball, Anthony Burt signaled for the first down. Burt was a versatile team member playing both half back and defensive back.

Sport With Spirit

Cheering Now a VHSL Event

Who said cheerleaders weren't athletes? This year the Virginia High School League decided to add cheerleading as a sport. This meant competitions, scholarships, and most importantly strenuous practices.

Fifteen energetic athletes made up the Varsity Cheering Squad. Five seniors and ten juniors tried out in August.

The cheerleaders were also required to have a competition squad. The team could have a total of twenty girls and could consist of both JV and Varsity cheerleader.

The squad learned cheers, dance routines, tumbling techniques, and mounts at a Saturday camp held at Salem High School. Practice was held two nights a week during the school year. At practice, new mounts and routines were created and practiced to perfection.

Cheering covered both fall and winter sports. The girls had to plan their schedules around the football and basketball games as well as post season play. Cheerleaders performed in 90 degree weather as well as in the freezing cold. No matter what the conditions were, the Varsity cheerleaders were always there to support their team.

Cheerleading is a sport that requires time, energy, hard work, and dedication. It also requires stamina, coordination, and a good memory. When asked about the cheerleaders, Fallon Harrington responded, "Most people think that we just play around at practice, but the truth is that we really work very hard."

Cheering for the Trucker defense, senior Kelly Fleming leads the team in a chant. Fleming has been captain of the Cheering squad all four years of high school.

Executing a russian, Erica Boone shows her entusiasm about the team's touchdown. This is Boone's first year on the cheering squad. When asked about cheering, she replied, "it's a lot of fun, I really enjoy it."

"Give me a C!" At the Homecoming Game Junior Charis Gilliard pumps up the crowd by asking them to join in a cheer. Gilliard is new to CHS this year.

Performing before school, the cheerleaders get the students ready for the big game. Due to block scheduling, only one pep rally may be held during school hours.

Showing her spirit Jan Pittman waits for the captain to call the next cheer. Remembering all of the words and motions to a cheer requires a great deal of memory.

Big Changes

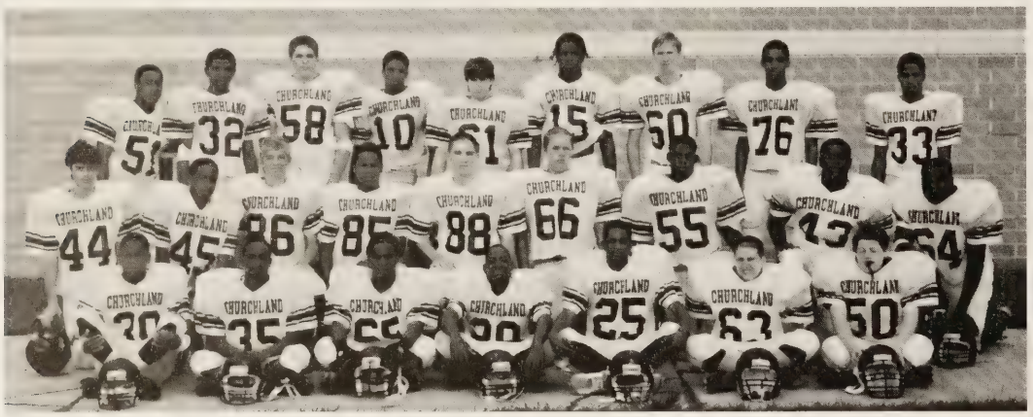
JV Takes District At 6-1

District Champs, the Baby Truckers were the dominant power in the Eastern District. The Trucker defense was disciplined and the offense was drilled.

The main threat to scoring was due to freshman quarterback Alfred Young and sophmore wide receiver Stuart Baiza. They produced the best offensive output since the 8-0 team in 1990. "We just wanted to show people that we could compete within the district," said Baiza.

Holding opponents at bay with quickness and strength, the defensive unit showed great discipline. Sophmore defensive tackle Tico Brown and freshman cornerback DeAngelo Wright led the way on the other side of the ball. The team had its most impressive victory with a 45-0 win over Norcom. "I hope that the boys have another winning season next year," said coach Kaiser Simeon.

J.V. cheerleading was in its best form in years due to the new coach, Patricia Lyon, and an increased dedication to the cheering routines. "We had more fun this year because we had closer knit squad," said sophmore Aubrie Meade. The squad spent many hours a week preparing and perfecting their routines. Their hard work and dedication were very evident in the squad's performances at athletic events and pep rallies.



J.V. Football-Mike Morris, Alfred Young, Jenard Mays, Jonathan Balonis, DeAngelo Wright, Preston Steelick, Herbert Watson, Robert Hammond, Christopher Mc Coy, William Morris, Talren Hawkins, John Dellapeelle, Darryl Bautiste, Michael Morris, Naquarius Combs, Keith Johnson, Jaman Larue, Ricky Davis, David Norfleet, Mike Hodges, Jeffrey Thompson

Getting into the cheer, Latoyria Wright and Keiatta Turner root the football team on to victory. This was both Wright and Turner's first year on the squad.

J.V Cheering-First Row: Theresa Parker, Kelly Gregory, Aubrie Meade.
Third Row: Latoyria Wright, Christi Hollins, Brandis Bradshaw, Keiatta Turner.
Forth Row: Melanie Morrison, Kim Lipkins.

Tearing through the banner, members of the J.V. team head to the sidelines. The team was fired up for their game with the Norview Pilots. The team had a break-through season going 6-1.

Busting tackles, Mike Morris drives for the first down. Morris was a key player in the team's quest for the district crown.

Alfred Young breaks away from the defense through the hole provided by the offensive line. Young was a major force for the Baby Trucker.

Awaiting the serve, Deborah Khuanglawn and Lindy Campbell prepare to make a play on the ball. Doubles competition depended on teamwork.

Catherine Booth delivers a powerful forearm to her Norcom opponent. "The only way to improve in tennis is to motivate yourself to work hard," remarked Booth.

Following through, David Winbourne launches the ball over the net to his opponent. Making a precise return took tremendous amounts of concentration.

Tossing it up, Jessica Mann readies herself to make the serve. An accurate serve could make or break a match. This was Mann's fourth year on the squad.

Executing a forehand, Justin Peszko shows excellent form. Good form was a key focus in making an accurate shot.

Focusing on her return, Becky Foster aims her racket at the ball. Becky was a major contribution to the team's success.

Game, Set, Match!

Tennis Teams Serve Up Success

Advancing to the regional tournament, the girl's tennis team proved that they were a force to be reckoned with. Anchored by four seniors, the team ended the regular season losing only once to Maury. The squad placed second in the district behind Maury. This contest was highlighted by the second place finish in singles by Beth Branton, and second place in doubles by Becky Foster and Jessica Mann.

Their season was filled with high moments."The most memorable moment was when we found out that we placed second at Districts," commented Kim Bowers.

The boy's tennis team had a new coach for the 1999 season, Coach Mac Carroll took the helm after the departure of Coach Lyles. "I'm not exactly new to coaching tennis, I coached at Suffolk High School for many years before transferring here," remarked Coach Carroll. The team had several returning players, including Allan Sullivan and Justin Peszko, both performing during last season. The boys hoped to repeat the success of the girls.

After the district meet, Patrick Comstock and Jesse Foster congratulate each other on their performances. Both runners placed in the top ten, receiving all-district honors.

With the competition behind him, Ben Booth sprints to a fifth place finish and the regional meet. Booth was also the Eastern District Champion. Heather McGinly focuses on the finish line.

As the competition moved in, Adam Bright looked to move up to the lead pack. As a first year team member, Bright was the team's fourth man.

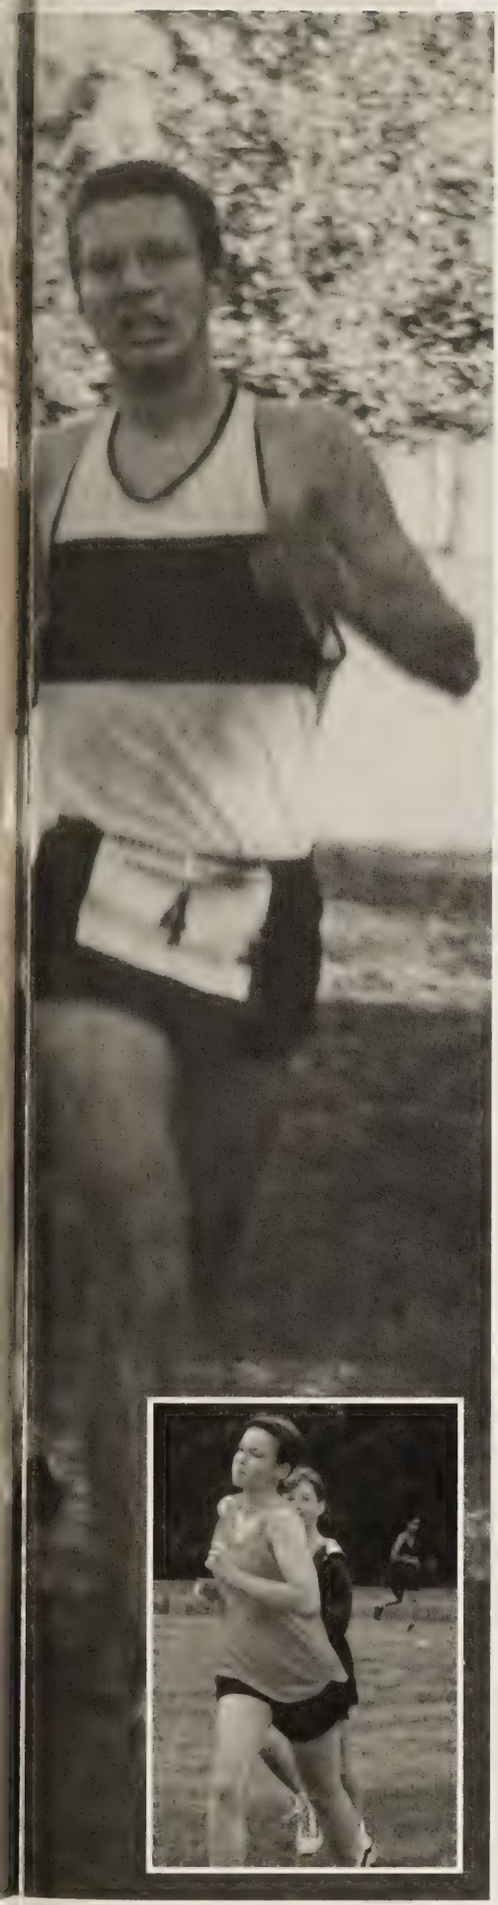
Jamie Seagraves kept the opposition within striking distance as he ran the back stretch. Seagraves was the team's only freshman, running as the seventh man.



Extreme Sport

Cross-country Tests the Limits

Cross-country has always been a sport of extremes, extreme terrain and extreme conditions. The cross-country team began the season in the stifling heat of August and completed the season at the Eastern Region Championship in October. Benjamin Booth and Patrick Comstock, both moved on to the VHSL State Championships, held at Great Meadows in Warrenton. " There were thousands of people there all yelling and cheering," stated Comstock. "There is no other event like it anywhere."

Despite having a relatively young team, the Truckers had a solid season. At the Eastern District Championships, the team produced a great performance and placed second. Benjamin Booth was the District Champion with Patrick Comstock coming in a close second. Sophomore, Jesse Foster, also brought home All-District honors with his seventh place performance. Other key performers included Adam Bright, Nick Sheperty, and Thomas McFadden.

The Lady Truckers had a young team this year and despite the setbacks, had a good season. "We did not have enough girls for a full team, but that did not stop us from wanting to win," stated Heather McGinley. All four members of the team inproved their times greatly over the season. " I was pleased with everyone's effort, all and all I would say that we had a great season," said Coach Moss.

Judging by the performances this year, distance running at CHS is secure. With one member of the team graduating, both teams should be force next year.

After the warm up run, Belen Joa stretches to prepare for the rest of her workout. Joa, a second year member, was a key returner for the Lady Truckers.

A rainy day brought practice indoors for Benjamin Booth. Booth was the leading distance runner in both track and cross country.

Driving his knees and pumping his arms, Tony Turner sprints down the straight away. Turner was valuable asset to the team's quest for the district championship.

efore the start of practice, Coach larence Brown converses with Patrick omstock about a strategy for the upcom- ig race.

Posed in perfect form Johnathan Banks plants his feet firmly in the sandpit. Banks, one of the best athletes in the area in the triple jump, helped lead the Truckers to one of their best seasons ever.

With only fifty meters of her workout left, Elizabeth Brown pounds it out. Brown was one of the top long distance runners for the Lady Truckers.

High jumper Anthony Burt concentrates on his approach to the bar. Burt holds the school record in the high jump with a vault of 6'1".

Head of the Pack

A Quest for the Championship

The end of February marked the beginning of the spring track season. The Truckers were led by seniors Benjamin Booth and Anthony Burt, who both qualified for the state meet in 1998. Other top returners included Tony Turner, Patrick Comstock, and Johnathan Banks. About the teams chances of winning the district title, Patrick Comstock responded, "I feel that we can take the title, we have great distance runners and great jumpers."

This year the Truckers were not only on a quest to win the district title, but to break several of the school records. Anthony Burt, who already held the record for the high jump at 6'1", said, "I really would like to add a few more inches to that record, to make it a little harder for someone else to break." Benjamin Booth was also on a mission this year. "I want to set records for all the middle distance events, 800m, 1600m, and 3200m," he said.

Darin Bracy, coach of the girl's team, had a very optimistic outlook going in to the 1999 track season. Latonya Jenkins, Elizabeth Brown, and Millie Hill led the Lady Truckers. "I am looking forward to the start of the new track season," remarked Elizabeth Brown. "We really want to prove that the Lady Truckers are the best in the district.."

Spiking in Success

Girls and Boys rule the District

Defending their Eastern District titles both the girls and boy's varsity volleyball teams came through as champions once again. The girls were 14-0 and the boys were 13-1, as both teams also took the District Tournament title.

For the third year in a row, the girls proved their strength and skill with a league record of 20-3. The young team practiced in the off season to improve their skills. Individual standouts were seniors, Sarah Joyner and Melissa Betts and sophomore, Mandy Snyder who made first team all district. District Player of the Year was senior Tawanda Brown. The boy's team also fielded District Player of the Year, junior, Steve Holland. First team all district winners were juniors Justin Peszko, Kenny Giacolone, and Jonathan Banks. Banks and Giacolone also made second team all region. For the second time since 1996, the boy's varsity volleyball team held a league record of 16-4 for the season.

Strong hitting, blocking and setting were strengths of the players. Both the girls and boys volleyball teams deseved their unbound success in ruling the Eastern District.

Defying the laws of gravity, Johnathan Banks slams the ball over for a kill. Banks, a junior, was one of the team captains for the squad. Girl's team captain Sarah Joyner watches for the next move on the court.

Displaying team work on the court, Daniel Averette digs up a hit while Jamie Perry waits to assist him. Both Averette and Perry were first year players.

High above it all, senior Melissa Betts goes up for a kill. Betts, a fourth year starter in volleyball, lettered in three varsity sports.

Lady Truckers

Holding Their Own

Some seasons just required regrouping and rebuilding. The Varsity girl's basketball team had such a season which ended with an 8-14 record. LaShica Young credited her team with "hard practice and teamwork."

Three returning seniors, Tawanda Brown, Jennifer Bright, and Melissa Betts were a driving force behind the team's dedication. Brown, playing both defense and offense, scored a total of 326 points during the season. Betts and Brown together provided a total of 253 defensive rebounds. Their play was crucial in the upset over Deep Creek. An Eastern District victory was always a highlight to the season. When asked about her last year on the squad, Tawanda Brown replied, "A small team of eight girls hurt us. We were good, but we could have won more games if we had communicated better. There was a lot of pressure because the starters generally played the entire game."

Although most of the team had previous experience, that advantage was reduced by no depth on the bench. The gap left by graduating seniors would leave large shoes to fill.

Looking down court, Jennifer Bright waits for her team to get into position. Bright led the team with 63 assists.

Shooting over a defender, Tawanda Brown goes for two. Brown was the leading scorer on the team.

Going over the game plan, Coach Duke Conrad prepares his team to go back on the court. Conrad has been coaching the Lady Truckers for ten years.

Dribbling around a defender, Candice Drummond heads down the court. Drummond was a top returnee this year.

Fighting off her defenders, Melissa Betts looks towards the basket. Betts was among one of the team leaders in points scored. She was also a four year player for the Lady Truckers.

At the line, Lashica Young tries to put points on the board. Young was one of the juniors on the squad.

Showing his skill, Paul Jones slams away for two. Jones was among one of the starting five. He was the only freshman and the team's leading rebounder for the new and improved Truckers.

On the breakaway, Tony Jones dribbles toward the basket. Practices reinforced ball-handling skills for the squad.

During an intense moment, Coach Carroll reacts to the players on the court. Carroll has been coaching Varsity for twenty years.

In full extension, Matt Shea tries for the tip. Shea played center for the Truckers. Shea led the team in 3 point percentage.

Hoop Action

Ending Season With a Bang!

The boy's basketball squad built up their season through hard work and determination and it all paid off at the end. The team record was 9-10 as they started their final game against the #1 ranked Maury Commodores. They gave their all and won the game finishing the season with a .500 record.

"It was really important for us to end the season with a victory," said senior Matt Shea. The hard work and practice throughout the year helped the team pull off several key victories against teams such as Western Branch and Lake Taylor. Another attribute of the team was their experience. Nine of the eleven players were upperclassmen and five of them were seniors.

The team practiced hard to ensure a good performance at game time. The top scorers of the team were Paul Jones, Tony Jones, Doug Cobb, and Justin Peszko. On defense, Tony Jones led the team with 62 steals. The squad was well balanced defensively as well as offensively.

Under the leadership of their coach, Mac Carroll, the Truckers had a much improved season over the previous two years. Hopefully the Truckers can bring more pride to the basketball program for years to come.

Crossfacing his opponent, Richard Parris gains control to score two points. Parris was a senior on the varsity squad.

Two Of A Kind

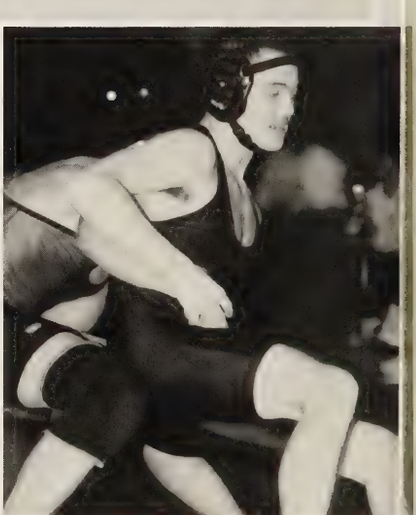
Performing On Two Levels

Wrestling and golf are two sports that have nothing in common, right? Wrong, both golfers and wrestlers competed on the individual and team level for their respective sports. Countless hours of practice were involved in each sport as well.

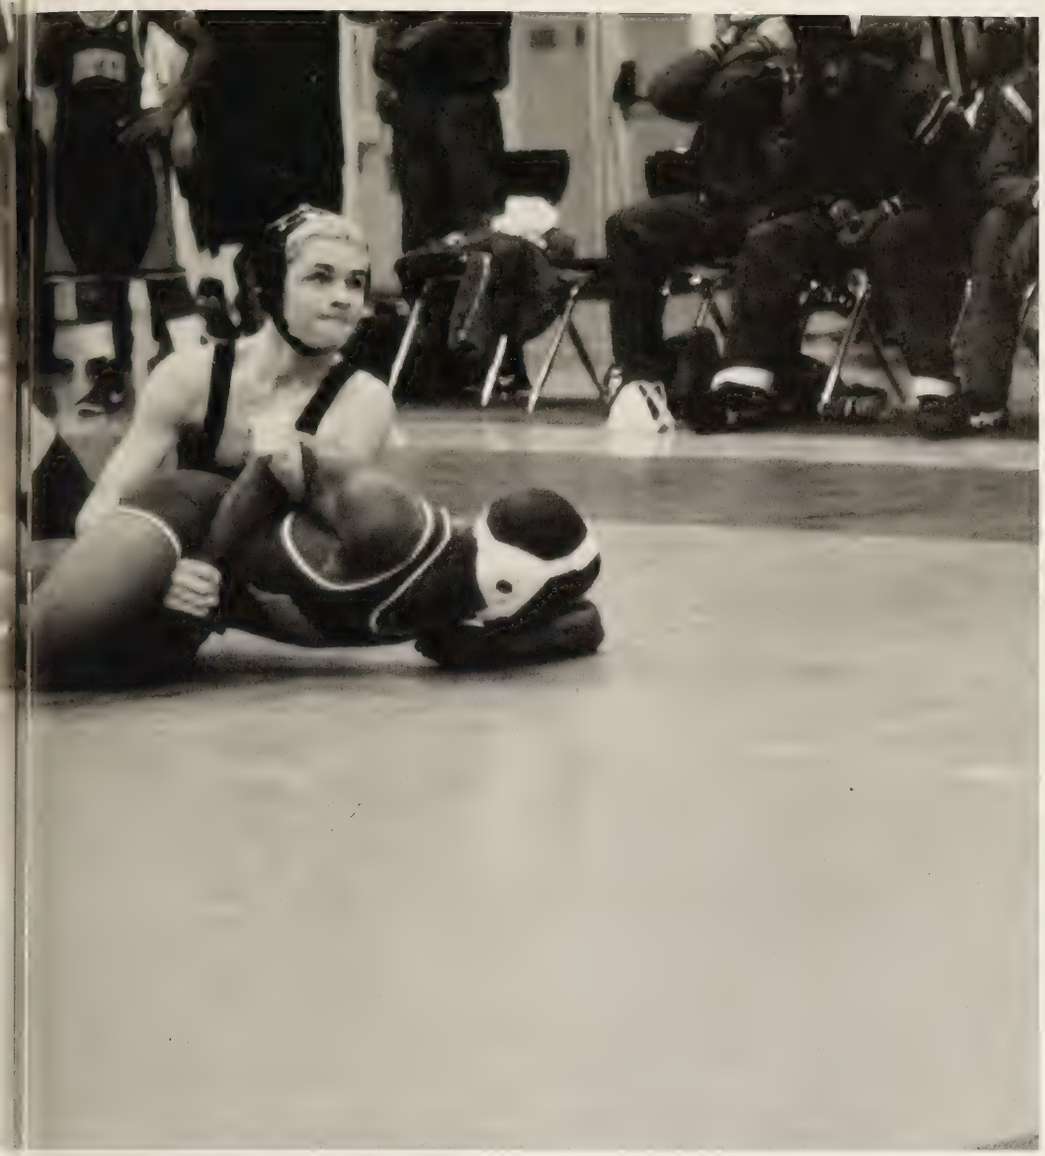
The size of the wrestling squad this year was smaller than last year's team. The team forfeited six weight classes, which made it quite difficult to achieve a win on the team level. "It made it hard to win as a team but I think it gave us more incentive to win at every weight class," said returner Jason Hanbury. Despite this fact, they defeated Franklin and Indian River as well as an impressive fourth place at the Portsmouth Holiday Tournament. Key wrestlers were Adam Bright, Wayne Culpepper, and Adam Wynn. Both Bright and Wynn qualified for the Regional tournament.

The golf team had an impressive season this year. Led by senior John Facenda, the team placed second at the district tournament. Facenda also won 1st place at the tournament.

Competition on team and individual levels was a characteristic that golf and wrestling had in common. Both teams achieved honors, which were highly commendable.



Wayne Culpepper breaks the grip after executing a stand up from off the mat. Stand ups were perfected at practice.



One hundred and twelve pounder and regional qualifier Adam Bright threads the arm in an attempt to score back points. Bright credited his regional berth to hard practices and constant drilling.

Team Effort

From the Start to the Finish

The fall sports scheduled boasted a new sport with the addition of girls field hockey coached by Ms. Diane Dennis. The team was dominated by sophomores and juniors. Inexperience did not prove to be a handicap, as the girls defeated Wilson and took first place in the city. With a strong returning line-up, the team looked forward to a more competitive second season.

The girls gymnastic team has spent the last four years as the only team in the city. This season, being the last, was completed at the district competition in February. Senior Ashley Eichkof qualified for Regionals All-Around. Coach Joe Bystrom had worked with the girls since the sport began ten years ago.

Seniors dominated the final season. Ashley Eickhof remarked, "Now that I'm graduating, not only am I leaving behind my high school years, but also a major part of my life, which is gymnastics."

The discipline and practice for field hockey varied from that of gymnastics in some ways, but members of both teams had to learn the mental aspects of their sport. Scores made the difference for the team as well as for each competitor in gymnastics. Individuals had to work as a team unit in order to succeed Skills and drills were essential.

Sophomore Leanne Miller heads for the ball while defending the goal. Miller stay at the goal side throughout the season.

Keeping Fit

Teams Train Year Round

Appealing to many people, soccer has grown in popularity. While the soccer season was in the spring, the players actually started practicing in the fall. Girls and guys used the weight room to get conditioned in the off-season. Running, leg lifts, and sprints were some of the pre-season exercises.

Having placed second in the district in 1998, "Our goal was to make regionals this year," commented Coach "Biff" Andrews of the girl's soccer team. The girls had a strong team with returning starters, seniors Carrie Robbins and Jina Gaines. Juniors Becky Long and Rachel Paige, along with sophomore Jeri Gaines, also contributed to this year's season.

The guy's soccer team was coached by Mr. Duke Conrad. Returning for the guy's soccer team this year was senior Jay Samonte, and returning juniors were Kurt Straub and Matthew Anderson. The team had great strength due to the depth of their lineup. Conrad felt that the team could easily dominate the district. Chad Godwin felt, "perfection takes a lot of time and a lot of hard work." For many students, soccer became a year round sport and a great outlet after school and even on weekends. Like all sports, soccer was one way for students to challenge themselves.

Showing considerable skill, Jonette Ricks dribbles through three opponents. Ricks, a sophomore, played front line, leading the offensive attack.

Chad Godwin and Matthew Vaughan back up Ian Fagan, who is awaiting the pass. Fagan, a fourth year player, made all district in 1998.

Skillfully controlling the ball, Amber Cook checks for an opening. Cook was the heart of the defense, with only two years experience on the team. She commented that, "Our team's strong points were our defense, fullbacks, and goalie."

Luke Pruitt attempts to steal the ball from a Lake Taylor forward. Pruitt, played center midfield with three years experience on varsity.

Moving past the defense, Ian Fagan heads toward the goal. Anchoring the offense, Fagan played the striker position for Churchland.

Taking the kick for the Truckers, Kip Poole shows unique form. Fourth year player, Poole led the defense and served as captain for the team.

Alyson Wyatt concentrates on moving the ball down the field. Wyatt, a senior, played midfield and was a key player to the Churchland defense.

In his batting stance, Junior Andrew Kunkle, focuses on the ball. Kunkle had one of the highest batting averages on the team. Concentrating on the game, Coach Conrad watches her team to victory.

Junior Phillip Smith contemplates the steal. Smith had six steals this season for the varsity squad.

Anticipating the catch, Aria Taylor crouches for the play. Taylor had one of the highest fielding percentages on the team.

As the runner tags first, Matt Keithly goes for the pick. Keithly, a junior, has been playing first base since the spring of his sophomore year.

Awaiting the throw, Senior Melissa Betts eyes the pitcher. This was Betts fourth year starting for Conrad's Varsity Girls Softball Team

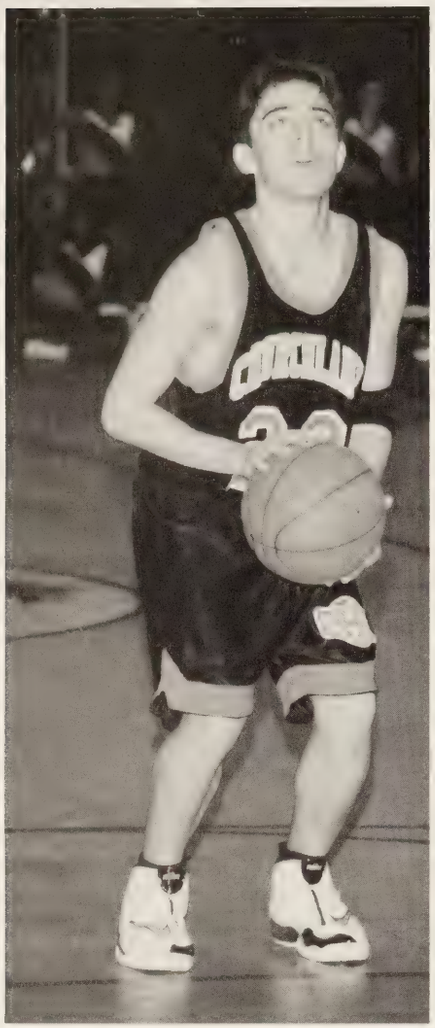
Boys and Girls look for Runs

Coming off a 14-4 season and having won the district title the Boys Varsity baseball team looked forward to an outstanding season. With a strong returning line-up for the "99" season they are expected to dominate within the district. With the three starting aces back consisting of Phillip Smith, Andrew Lawson, and Jeff Bingham. Also with a solid batting order and infield there apears to be nothing standing in their way of a successful year. "Since last seasons success we have matured tremendously and I think we can take it a step further this season" stated Junior Andrew Kunkle.

Gloves to the ground and bats swinging the Lady Truckers were ready to play. After last years learning season the Lady Truckers felt that they can be a top contender for the district title. Some key returners for the girls are Kristen Smith, Melissa Betts, and Julie Reaves. "With a lot of hard work and motivation we should take the district title" stated starting pitcher Kristen Smith.

With the motivation and hard work, both the guys and girls are looking forward to a record breaking season.

Shooting for two points, Stuart Baiza concentrates on making the basket. Baiza was a second-year starting player for the Truckers.



The team huddles on the sideline while using their final time-out. Coach Brian Maus discussed their strategy for the last few plays.

Looking for an opening on the court, Ronni Jones quickly passes the ball to an open teammate. This was Jones first-year playing.

At The Hoop...

Young Teams Develop Skills

Junior Varsity sports were the training ground as well as the proving ground for young athletes. The Junior Varsity boys and girls basketball teams worked hard to develop both individual and team skills. Dribbling, shooting, passing, and blocking were some of these skills. The end of the season revealed determined, well-rounded players.

Coach Bobbi Conrad told the girl's team throughout the season "to always give 110%." She believed that they exceeded that amount and gave 210%. The team had good chemistry, and Charlotte Davis reflected the closeness, "Our team is like a unit...we know how one another plays, and how one another lives."

Having the best record under Coach Brian Maus, the boy's team was the only team in the Eastern District not to lose a player due to their grades. The 2.0 average required by Portsomouth Public Schools was effective. David Norfleet felt that, "Excelling in school was important this past season... it was a learning experience for all of us."

Building for both their academic and athletic futures, the members of the Junior Varsity basketball teams showed dedication and desire. Winning both on and off the court were the goals of these young teams. The squads laid a strong foundation for the future. They strived for success and preparation for the years to follow.

Getting directions from her coach, Carrie Robbins prepares to go back on defense. Robbins was an all-district forward in 1998.

Waiting for the serve, Stephen Holland sets in. Holland was the Eastern District MVP for boys volleyball.

nging the heat, Andrew Lawson ows a strike. He helped lead the ckers to their first district title in 16 rs. Lawson was also the Spring orts Player of the year.

nior Jina Gaines lunges for the ball in a se match. Gaines helped lead the team a regional playoff berth.

Trucker Sports

And The Winner Is...

Competing on the district, regional, and state level was nothing new but for a first year team, it was quite an accomplishment. The Varsity Cheerleaders ended their first year as a VHSL sanctioned sport by gaining a berth at the state meet in Richmond. A lack of guys on the squad didn't seem to hinder the girls in the presentation of their routine.

The banners on the front of the school proclaimed our district championship teams. Both girls and guys volleyball took district titles. A highlight of the Spring '98 season was the co-district championship title won by the baseball team. This title had eluded the team for sixteen years.

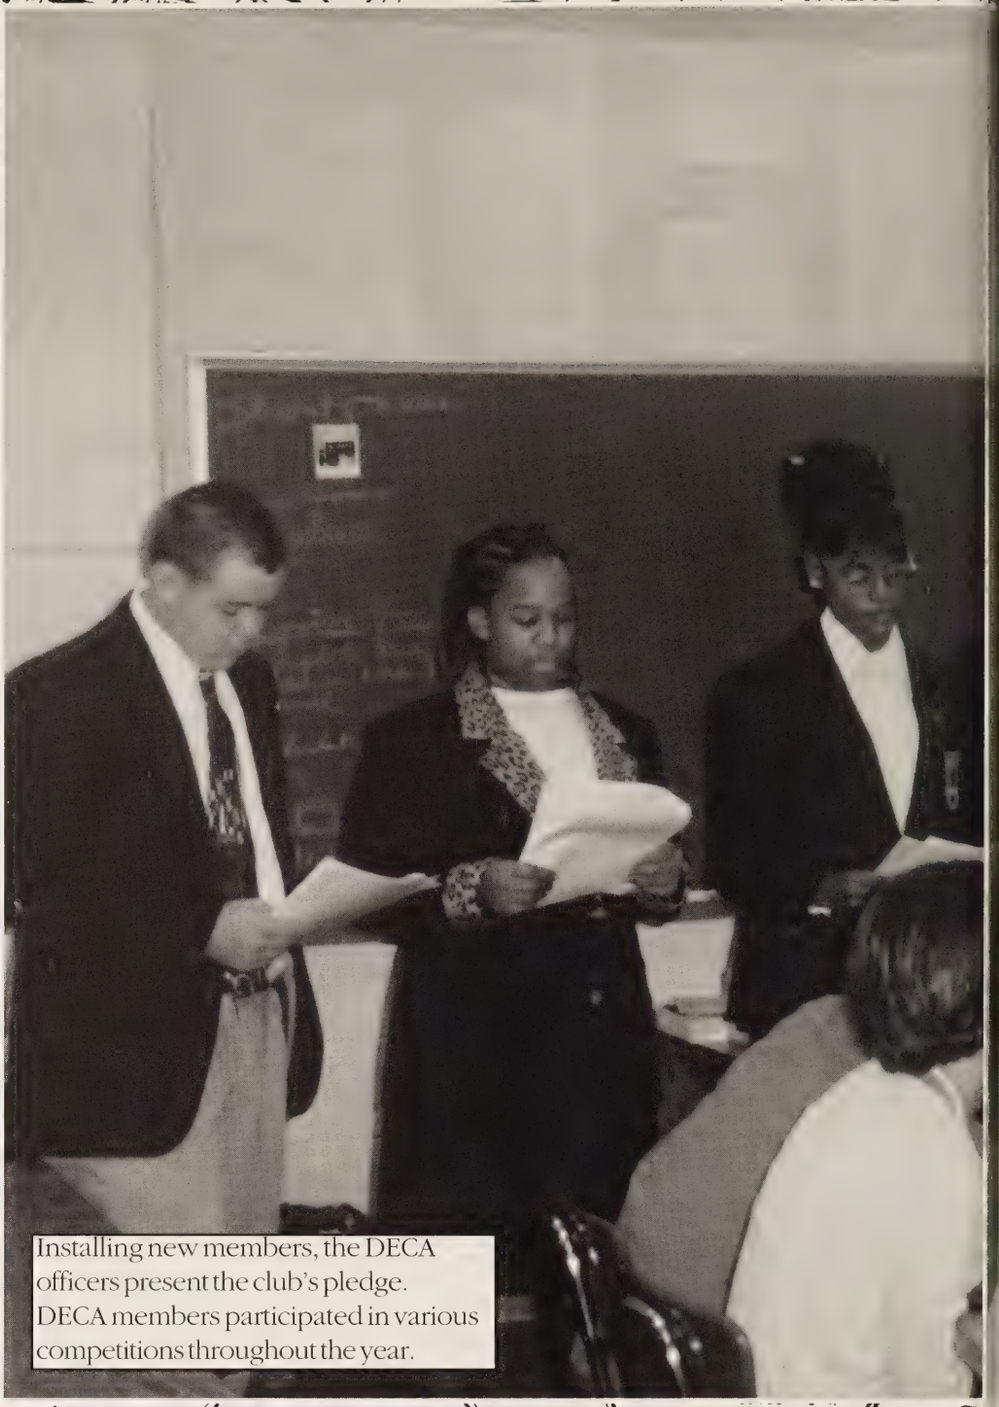
Placing All District was a regular occurrence with twelve players representing six teams achieved this goal, regional and state meets saw Trucker runners as well as Varsity volleyball and baseball. Championships were a normal part of any athletic season.

Punting the ball away, Kurt Straub is fully extended. Straub made second team all-Tidewater and first team all-district.

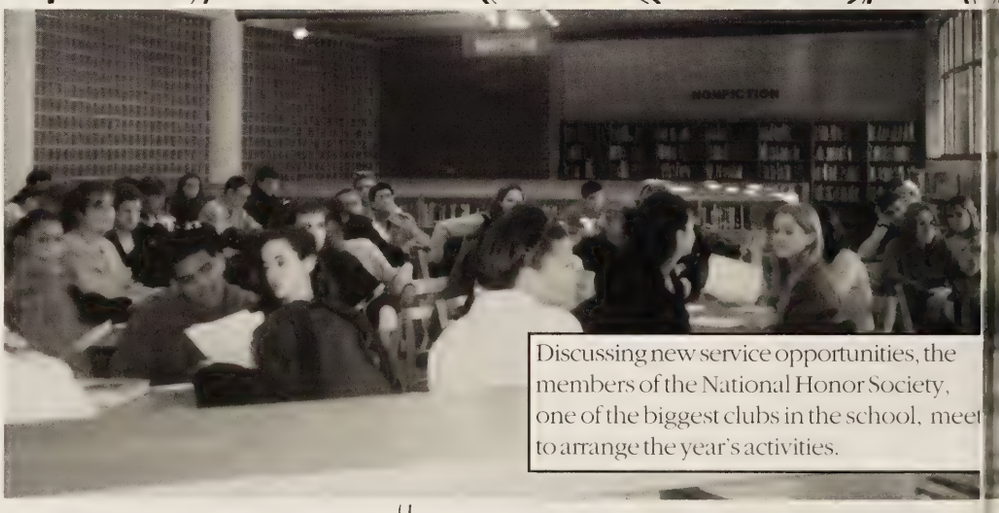
After winning the district title the girls get together to show they are number one. This was the first year that cheerleading became a sport.

Volunteering and fundraising were regular activities of most student clubs and organizations. While the holiday season provided many opportunities to help others, members of Interact regularly visited Churchland House and the SCA assisted needy families with a Ronald McDonald House project.

Throughout the year, members of DECA never stopped fundraising. Four state winners were sent to Orlando at the end of April and the entire club assisted with defraying their expenses. Cooperation and a giving spirit always yielded success.



Installing new members, the DECA officers present the club's pledge. DECA members participated in various competitions throughout the year.



Discussing new service opportunities, the members of the National Honor Society, one of the biggest clubs in the school, meet to arrange the year's activities.

Road To Success

The Way To The Future

The Marketing program helped students learn how to get good grades and keep a job. In October, every student enrolled in Marketing was inducted into DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America. This organization helped train students for life in the "real" world. Junior Jan Pittman remarked, "DECA gives me skills and motivation needed to be the best at my job."

DECA sponsored many annual events. A fashion show at Chesapeake Square Mall, a blood drive, and the annual Thanksgiving food drive gave students the opportunity to give to others. There was also a field trip to the State Fair in Richmond, in order to celebrate DECA Day. There, students were able to observe booth operators and learn different marketing strategies.

DECA was not all work, however, as members participated in bowling and pizza parties and DECA Dress-Up Day. On induction day, all members were treated to a "Chick-Fil-A" breakfast.

As participants in the Marketing program and DECA, students were taught everything from how to prepare a resume to how to dress professionally. Students practiced job interview skills, and parliamentary procedure. They learned how to operate a professional business organization.

The friendships and cooperation that students shared in DECA benefitted students for a lifetime. DECA was the first step on the road to success.

Trying on a pair of shoes to match his outfit, Senior Demetrius Pritchett received assistance from an employee at Finish Line. Finish Line provided a large portion of the sportswear for the fashion show.

At the conclusion of the fashion show, Mrs. Snellinger received a bouquet of flowers, from her students, for all of her hard work in organizing the show.

Concert Band

Music Makers

Year-Round Award Winners

Being a member of band was not just going to class and practicing an instrument, but also included spending time after school at work and competitions every Saturday.

The marching band members played at the home football games and traveled all over the area to compete. The two most important events were The Parade of Champions at James Madison University and the Eastern North Carolina Marching Band Competition in Roanoke Rapids, NC. Always a favorite was the Trucker Classic, where Churchland hosted a competition.

The concert band played for the school at various PTA meetings and for the students at the annual holiday show. Every year, the concert band goes to "The Festival" where they are "graded" on their performance on a scale of 1-5, with 1 being best.

It was very obvious by the performance of the marching and concert bands that many people put in much time and effort-simply for a love of music. Allan Sullivan quoted "I joined band at first because I thought it would be fun, but I was inspired and have continued because I love music."

Practicing for Perfection

Let there be music … The members of the chorus and orchestra participated in many performances and competitions annually. They performed in the Christmas Cantata and the Spring Festival. They also compete on district,regional and state levels.

Chorus is divided into three groups of students, Villagers, Varsity, and Chorale. Fifteen students made district chorus and three were selected for All-State Chorus. Those three students were James Clarke, Latrice Reese, and Sarah Talcott. Clarke said, "It was tough competition and a big honor, which was not expected." A new teacher, Mrs. Susan Cocke was brought in to guide students in their learning process. The Villagers and Varsity also perform year round upon request.

The orchestra is lead by Mr. Jay Larkin. It consists of seventeen people who play the violin, viola, cello, and bass. Included within the orchestra is a string quartet whose members were Mike Hester, Carl Northern, Christopher Lamm, and Lindsay Harris. They play at the NHS induction and graduation.

During the annual winter concert,Carl Northern performs for family and friends. Northernhas been in orchestra for three years.

Learning Abroad

Clubs With a Foreign Flair

Foreign language clubs paralleled the foreign language classes with various activities during Foreign Language Week. Going out to eat at La Tolteca or Orapax was great fun as well as an opportunity to use foreign language skills. Students not only needed to translate the menu, but they also had to place their order.

Foreign Language honoraries provided a way to honor outstanding students. Students were inducted at an annual assembly which was followed by a reception.

A.F. S. sponsored foreign exchange students. The group worked with the adult chapter to help exchange students adjust to the "culture shock" of the United States. Short term exchanges also allowed club members to visit other high schools on the East Coast and to visit with their peers in different states. Fund raising was done in order to defray the cost of the trip.

The Spanish Club sponsored several activies including making courtesy gifts for the faculty, putting signs in Spanish around the school, and learning an Hispanic dance. Foreign Language Week provided the opportunity to create awareness of foreign cultures throughout the school. Posters as well as spoken and written competitions were held to promote student involvement.

Second Year For School Paper

Year two for the Mighty Trucker began with the sale of the October issue. Journalism students, under the supervision of Mrs. Kristin Sanderlin, produced this monthly publication. Mrs. Sanderlin felt that "since last year, the newspaper staff has more than doubled in size."

Regular features included editorials, op-ed, news stories, horoscopes, student viewpoints, and sports.

The paper was published eight times during the year and each issue contained sixteen pages. Subscriptions were available for three dollars and fifty cents or individual copies sold for fifty cents each.

October 22nd was the first date for sales this past year. Over one hundred subscriptions were sold and an average of two hundred individual issues were sold at that time. Sales produced over four hundred and fifty dollars. Producing the first edition was stressful for the new staff according to Marlon Jones, who said, "...but I managed to get through it this time!"

Staff positions included co-editors in chief, layout, photography, news, op-ed, sports, features, in-depth team, advertising, business manager, copy, and art editors. Co-editor in chief, Jennifer Bright learned that there was a lot of responsibility involved and observed, "You have to take on a role of leadership and be organized."

Honors reward excellence

The National Honor Society and Junior Marshals consisted of students who excelled not only in academics, but also in character.

The National Honor Society sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Harris consisted of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. The officers included President Ashley Eickhof, Vice-president Kelly Fleming, Secretary Kip Poole, and Treasurer Benjamin Booth. Students were inducted as sophomores and were required to have a 3.3 GPA. This was a change from last year's requirement of only having a 3.0 GPA. They also must have shown scholarship, service, leadership, and character in and out of school. Throughout the year members had to complete twenty service hours, five of which had to be sponsored by the NHS. Volunteers participated in bell ringing and stuffed stockings for the Salvation Army. They also participated in Santa Hotline at city hall.

The Junior Marshals were students selected by teachers and faculty to help out at open house PTSA meetings, orientations, and graduation. Their sponsor was Mrs. Susan Yearby. They were required to have a 3.0 GPA. Kenneth Giacolone was chosen to be chief marshal. Giacolone said "It was an honor to be selected and I was really surprised".

Kip Poole, Kelly Fleming, Ashley Eickhof, and Benjamin Booth meet to discuss future plans. NHS meetings were held on the first or third Thursday of every month.

Working together, Jina Gaines and James Darden work on copy for the Mighty Trucker. Partner work was used often to prepare articles for the newspaper. Gaines and Darden were in Journalism I.

The Designers

Students Show Artistic Skill

Poets and artists, writers and photographers were needed as student's publications met deadlines and went to press. The Art Honor Society recognized outstanding artists. The newspaper and literary magazine gave students the opportunity to get published.

The Art Honor Society (AHS) was sponsored by Mrs. Jean Giacalone. Those students who had previously completed at least one art course with at least a B received the honor of a membership in AHS.

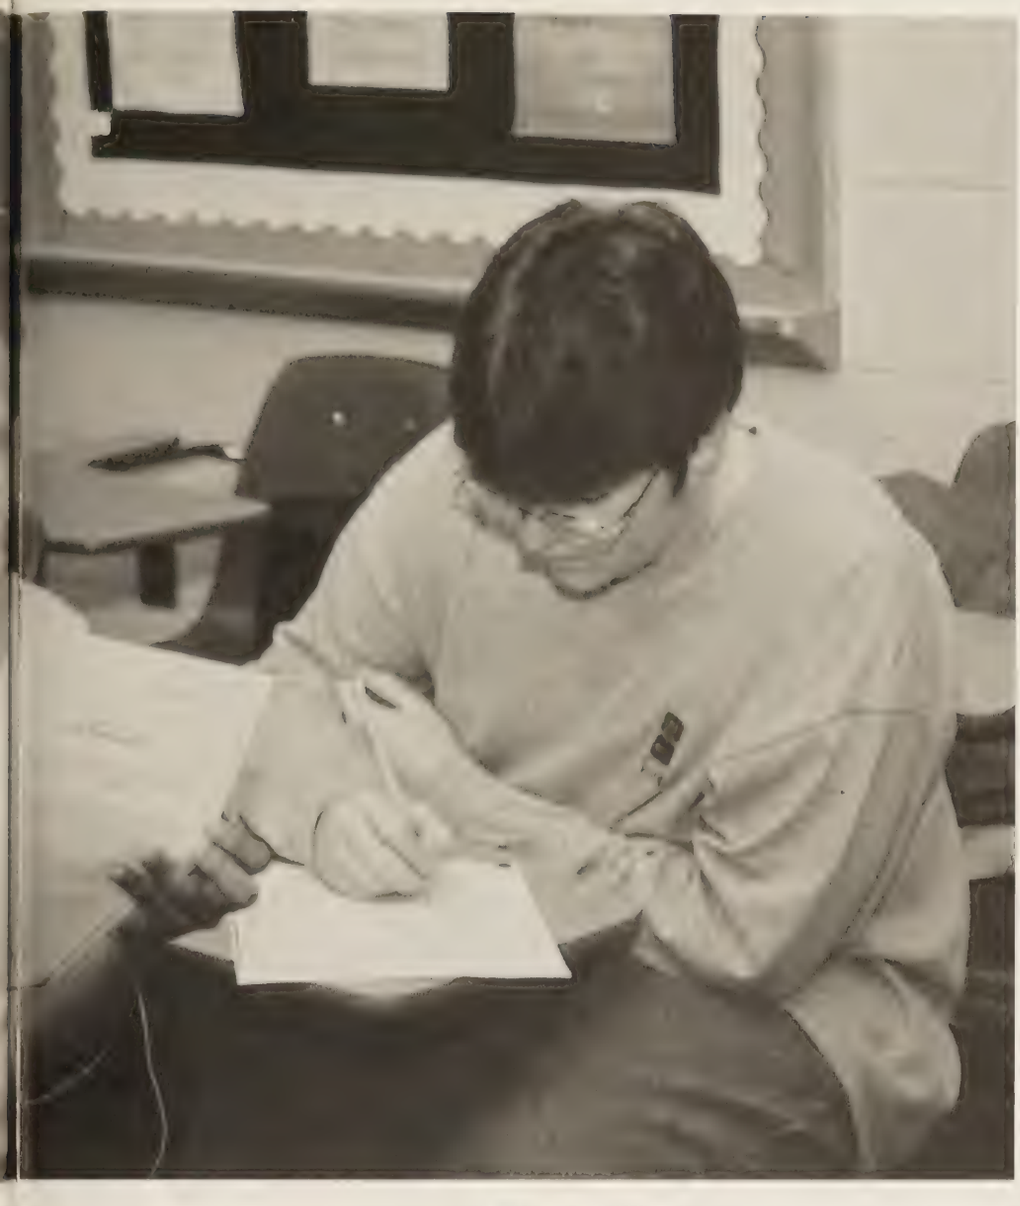
Another activity was the Literary Magazine. The Literary Magazine has been devoted to publishing student's short stories, poetry and art. The sponsor was Mrs. Jamie Cosumano.

The Mighty Trucker was a popular publication among the students. Published monthly by Mrs. Kristen Sanderlin, the newspaper included everything from student views and advice columns to current event topics around our school. Stories for The Mighty Trucker were written and published by Mrs. Sanderlin's Journalism I and II students.

AHS, the Literary Magazine, and The Mighty Trucker all provided an outlet for students to express themselves through art, writing and photography.

Literary Magazine Staff: First Row-J. Huffman (Sec.), E. White (Art Dir.), C. Youngs (Editor), M. Bailey (Co-Ed.), A. Conway (Co-Art Dir.). Second Row-D. Estep, A. Norman, K. Armbruster, A. Tsombikas, C. Davis, H. McGinley.

Art Honor Society: First Row-B. Deep[illegible] Huffman, S. Stevens, K. Culpepper, &co[illegible]



Advertising the Literary Magazine, seniors Jennifer Huffman and Ashley Trombitas place posters around the school.

Proofreading was essential before the newspaper went to press. Sophomore Crystal Thorne proofread articles.

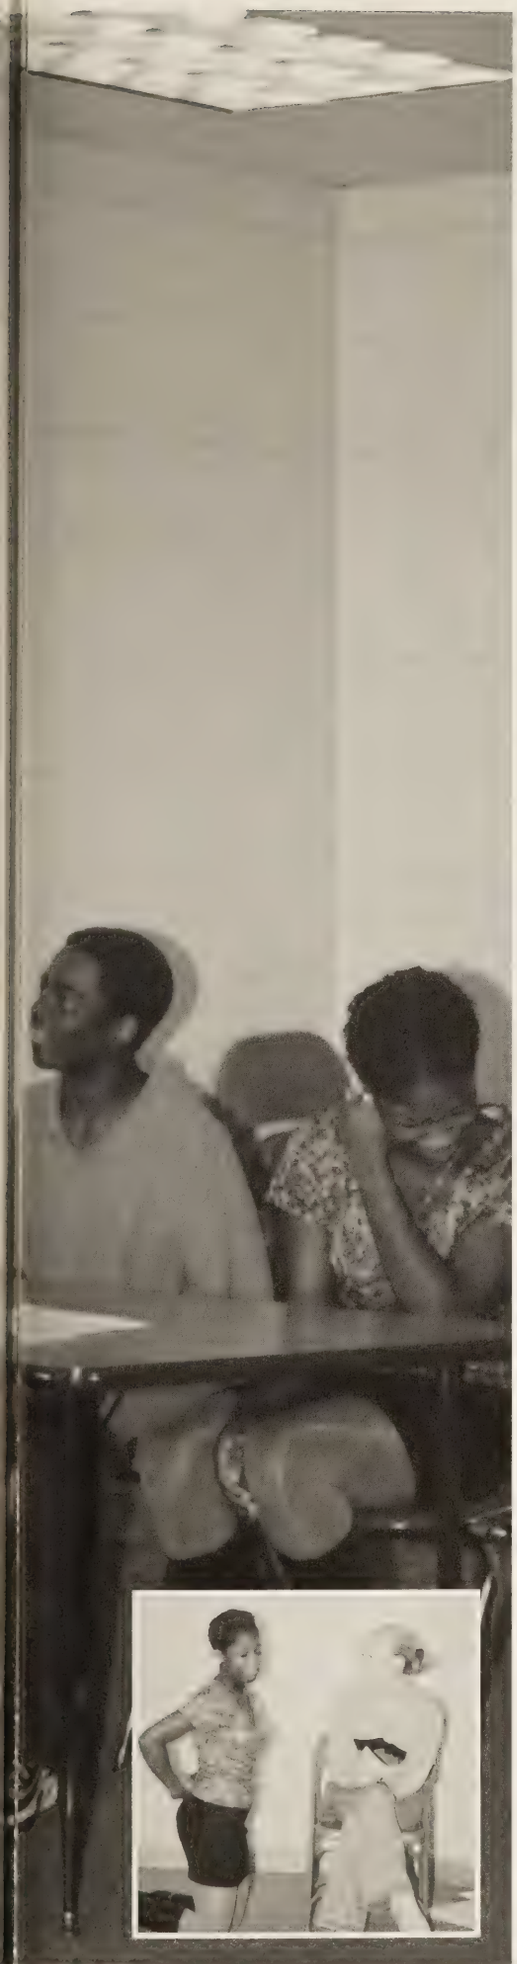
Deborah Khuanghlawn and Adam Bright study for the Open Master Knowledge test. Bright seemed very excited on knowing the correct response.



Center Stage

A Variety Of Skills

Buzzzz...This sound may have been familiar to you if you were on the Academic Team. Coached by Mr. Bradford Andrews, the team generally practiced twice a week. Using a buzzer system, Andrews quizzed the team, seniors vs. everyone else, using questions from previous matches.

The team planned to attend the Eastern District Tournament. The team also planned to participate in the Knowledge Master Open, a national computerized test. Andrews looked forward to defending the team's title as Eastern District Tournament Champs. When asked how she thought the team was doing Deborah Khuanghlawn commented, "This year's team is a good team with a lot of potential, we can still go to the regionals and finish second in the district."

Drama is another club sponsored by Aaron McGlothlin where students prepared in producing two plays this year. A competition play called "The Wooden Pear," and another school play. McGlothlin was inspired to produce a student written play for school because he felt it would give students an outlet to express themselves. In choosing the script to be used in the play McGlothlin said, "In order to appreciate, one needs to feel. If a particular piece of writing made me feel I included it."

Jason Rose, Kenneth Bell, and Renada Wilson perform an improvised skit about Christmas on stage. Renada explains to her "mother" Jana Lashbrook about classmates teasing.

Studying for an upcoming tournament, the Academic Team huddles around the computer to review. The team met twice a week to review for each competition.

"Roughing him up," Jaqui Mann and Katrina Daniels perform a robbery skit with Lewis Achron. This is their second year in Drama.

Zenique Smith assists Anthony Stovault in typing a resume for FFE. Education for Employment covered all aspects of business, from interviews to being on the job.

The F.F.E. club officers, Nicholas Roe, Shaquanna Godwin, Geneva Bowden and Colleen Roche prepare Teacher Appreciation baskets for Halloween.

In The Real World

Clubs Help Prepare for Careers

Several classes had organizations that gave club members the opportunity to work in the job field and to experience giving and doing for others.

Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) gave presents to the Salvation Army Angel Tree at Chesapeake Square Mall. They also took a field trip to see "Holiday Lights at the Beach."

Cooperative Office Education (COE) sponsored on the job training and experience. "COE gives me the opportunity to experience work first hand as well as interact with all types of people," said Meredith Kalmbach. Off site jobs included the sheriff's office downtown and an attorney's office. When asked how her off site job helps her in COE, Joan Pritchard replied, "My job allows me to get a "hands on" work experience and COE benefits my school work as well."

Education for Employment (EFE) sponsored the Teacher Appreciation Day and remembered the faculty on various holidays.

Future Homemakers of America (FHA) helped decorate for the homecoming dance. Carrie Brusso replied, "Because I enjoy baking, I was nominated to make food for the meetings."

Occupational organizations looked good on the resume giving students both an activity and job experience.

Serving Society

Clubs Offer a Helping Hand

Three of the largest and most active clubs were the SCA, Interact, and CHROME. Each club had a different purpose, which they set out to achieve. Each of these clubs provided a service to the students and the community.

The Student Council Association, or the SCA, was sponsored by Mrs. Lucy Lassiter. The SCA set out to promote school spirit and enhance school activities. This year the SCA sponsored Homecoming and ran a Christmas gift shop. The SCA also helped collect soda can tabs to help raise money for those who were less fortunate.

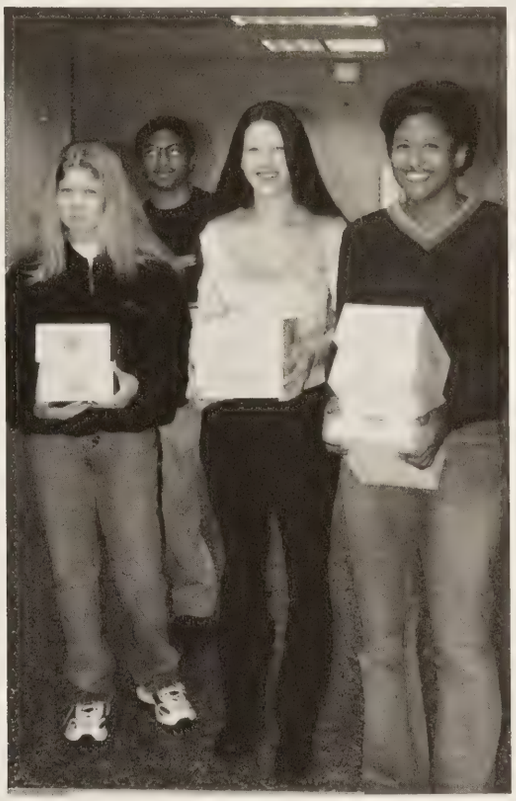
The Interact Club was sponsored by Mrs. Anna Cross and Ms. Lorrie Smith. The Interact Club's purpose was to provide school, community, and international service. One of their regular activities was to visit the Churchland House. There, students carved pumpkins at Halloween, decorated a Christmas tree, and ate a Christmas dinner.

While these two clubs assisted those in the community, the CHROME Club ran a little differently. CHROME, which stands for Cooperative Hampton Roads Organization Minorities in Engineering, was offered to help those minorities who wanted to enter the mathematics or engineering fields after high school. Although it was geared toward female minorities, the club was open to any minority and it only required $5 dues. CHROME members went on field trips, computer workshops, and other special activities. They were also able to qualify for internships and scholarships at colleges with engineering projects.

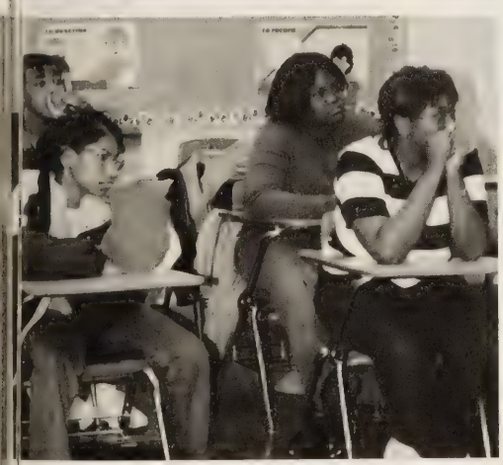
Interact-E. Bering, L. Curtis, K. Bowers (V. Pres.), K. Johnson (Sec.), S. Johnson (Treas.), J. Brown, A. Honaker, J. Samonte, C. Booth, J. Hill, J. Hogan, E. Thompson (Pres.), R. McKeveny, H. Hess, L. Campbell, D. Wong, M. Lopez, S. Collins, R. Paige, J. Ennis, A. Borrell, K. Giacalone, A. Warren, K. Wong.

Decorating the Churchland House for Christmas was always a fun activity for Interact members. Aubrey Borrell helped decorate ornaments for the Christmas tree. Borrell was a sophomore and was a first-year member to Interact.

Selling Krispy-Kreme donuts was a major fundraiser for the SCA. Members went to each classroom at the end of the day to sell the last few boxes.



Carving a pumpkin for residents at Churchland House, Aria Taylor tried to carve it perfectly. Many students came up with creative ideas for their pumpkins.



a weekly CHROME club meeting, embers discussed future club activi-es. CHROME members went on pecial science as well as computer orkshops.

s the sponsor of SCA, Mrs. Lassiter as in charge of all of their activities. he paused for a moment with some of e goods collected in the food drive.

SCA-First Row-S. Johnson (Treas.), J. Samonte (V. Pres.), J. Gaines (Pres.), A. Cook (V. Pres.); Second Row-L. Virgilio, L. Campbell, K. Bowers, J. Gaines, S. Daniels, L. Bright, L. Hicks, C. Wong, E. Boyd, B. Long (Pres. Elect); Third Row-K. Westrick, J. Clay, A. Charlton, K. Germnoth, R. Gray, S. Maynard, S. Jones, J. Blake; Fourth Row-C. Booth, A. Lawson, C. Mizelle, B. Cook, L. Collette, B. Maynard.

A yearbook does not just happen. Besides the major effort production, financial support from the community is vital to this project. Many businesses have supported the TRUCKER consistantly through the years. Their loyalty is most sincerely appreciated.

Parents and friends have regularly sponsored Senior ads. The popularity of these tributes is evident in the expansion of this section since 1994 by over forty pages.

To community businesses and parents, we say thank you... without your help we could not reach "The End of the Road."

Catherine Booth looks at various types of cars to get the best price. Getting a new car was a goal of many students, and Freedom Chevrolet was a popular location to shop.

Working at Dominion Apprisial after school, Meredith Todd, assists in putting in a insurance claim. Many students seek employment at local businesses.

-Remember that great love and achievements involve great risks.
-Judge your success by what you had to give up in order to get it.
-Don't let weeds grow around your dreams.
-Every so often let your spirit of adventure triumph over your good sense.
-It is not easy to find happiness in ourselves, and it is not possible to find it else where.
-This above all: To thine own be true-

Jason, I was there for your first day of school
And looking forward to your graduation.
Remember that your grandfather would have
Been proud of you and so am I.
Love, Grandma Gee

Jason,
As life presents its challenges, none will be as great as those you have already overcome through your martial arts studies.
As you face them, remember:
"7 times down- 8 times up."
You will always have the courage of a true warrior, the knowledge of a scholar, and the passion for life of an artist. Seek life out with the attitude of the black belt.
The one most committed wins.

The More Things Change. The More They Stay the Same.

Change. A sometimes overwhelming thought when it comes to moving. New friends ... new schools...a new home. And when you arrive you find that there are even more changes. New roads...new faces...new routines. At Sasser Construction we know that change can be difficult, but we also realize that moving your family doesn't mean leaving the important things behind. That's why we pride ourselves on our commitment to families, like yours, who desire quality... quality of life and quality of workmanship.

construction

At Sasser Construction, we build homes that withstand the test of time and all the changes that come along with it. Taking the utmost care to create personal residences that meet the expectations of the families who will live in them. So when you're looking to build a home, while maintaining the things that are important to you, look to Sasser Construction. Afterall, with all the changes taking place in your life, we know that a little consistency can go a long way!

Quality. Commitment. Pride.

AND NOW IS IT TOO LATE TO SAY HOW YOU MADE MY LIFE SO DIFFERENT IN YOUR QUIET WAY. I CAN SEE THE JOY IN SIMPLE THINGS, A SUNLIT SKY AND ALL THE SONGS WE USED TO SING. I HAVE WALKED AND I HAVE PRAYED THAT COULD START AGAIN. IN THE END, YOU ARE MY ONE TRUE FRIEND. FOR ALL THE TIMES YOU CLOSED YOUR EYES, ALLOWING ME TO STUMBLE OR BE SURPRISED. BY LIFE WITH ALL ITS TWIST AND TURNS, I MADE MISTAKES, YOU ALWAYS KNEW THAT I WOULD LEARN. AND WHEN YOU LEFT, ITS ME WHO STAYED, I ALWAYS KNEW THAT YOU'D COME HOME AGAIN. YOU ARE MY ONE TRUE FRIEND. THOUGH LOVE MAY BREAK IT NEVER DIES. IT CHANGES SHAPE THROUGH CHANGING EYES. WHAT I DENIED, I NOW CAN SEE. YOU ALWAYS WERE THE LIGHT INSIDE OF ME. I ALWAYS KNEW IT WAS YOU.
MY ONE TRUE FRIEND.
I LOVE YOU,
MOMMY

We are so proud of you and all your accomplishments. You are everything we dreamed you'd be and more.

Do you not know? Have you not heard? The LORD is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He will not grow tired or weary, and his understanding no one can fathom. He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak.

Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall; but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles: they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint.

Sean Bandura, Kristen Smith, Helen Hess, and Ashley Trombitas review the cover with their sponsor, Susan Yearby. Production of the book required many hours of discussion and planning by all members of the staff.

Seniors, Jeff Bingham and Richie Parris review pages for final proofing. All pages were required to be proofed before they were mailed to the plant.

Drawing pages on the computer, Stephanie Bristow, Jan Pittman, and Sean Bandura work together to finish a DPS. Every layout required a double page spread.

A familiar sight in room 118 was Erik Davis' office. Erik put all layouts and copy on the zip drive to send to Jostens. Shannon Dwyer checks out her pages.

Cropping pictures was a crucial part of page design. Ben Booth and Jennifer Hogan note the accuracy of the crop marks made by Kelly Fleming.

Road Work Ahead

Having Technical Difficulties

Computers were supposed to make life easier…yeah, right! The 1999 TRUCKER was done completely on computer except for the Community section. Computer guru and Associate Editor Erik Davis worked on every single page coordinating all elements with the approval of Editor- in-Chief Kelly Fleming.

Another challenge was the large staff. While experience was an advantage for half of the staff, organization and deadlines still proved to be a major problem for the largest TRUCKER to date.

The journey began in the summer of 1998, when Kelly Fleming, Stephanie Bristow, and Kenneth Eddy went to the Josten's summer workshop at Bridgewater College. Working with the Josten's artist and advisors, Fleming and Bristow came up with the theme, cover design and various other elements of the book.

The chaos that reigned in room 118 caused many people to think that nothing actually got done during fourth block, but as witnessed by the arrival of this year's edition, the staff did indeed work hard to complete an outstanding volume.

The book went to press in April. The End of the Road was June 1999 and deadlines were once again a thing of the past.

Home was the normal end of a journey, but the trip through high school ended with graduation. While we traveled various roads, the stopping point was always the same. We stopped only to see if the way was clear before we moved on to the next road.
